COLLEGIANS REST FROM WEARY REGISTRATION LINES, CLASSES, LECTURES

By JAMES PHEL

With the onset of registration September 9, students began pouring into Collegedale, faculty members began their reign in various classrooms, and the wealthman began dining an account of the deluge that would come to ensue through the week.

It seems that several of the recreational activities have had to be either altered or completely given to weather conditions. Little did most of the freshmen know as they returned to the dorms from the home of their actual faculty hosts September 9, that the rain was just a prelude. The ball game on September 10, the evening was instituted as small droplets maintained from the clouds. The volleyball players, blundered to all but points, didn't seem to notice, and the game continued.

When the time arrived for SMC sponsored fine arts "Madison Care", only those fortunate enough to own an umbrella and a raincoat could claim a dry day. We certainly forget the few who were lucky enough to find a small space beneath a tree—alas, even they were not to be hit by God's Thunderbolt after the program.

Professor Gordon Hyde, after scanning the clouds for some time, finally announced an outdoor registration for Saturday night, September 14. The program, "Registration and Orientation", was to be held at the home of Professor and Mrs. Clyde G. Bushnell. Hyde, presiding the silhouettes of criticism and was drawn (?) by Varney Bushnell and placed conspicuously around the room. There were many comments pouring to identify the likeness. There were other interesting games, except by all present.

Although the southern report of 9.53 miles of rain September 9-11, the spirits of our students were not dampened, nor their enjoyment of life suppressed.

The store has sold their last umbrellas, with the effect that only raincoated clothes seem to be the fashion. Does anyone know of having sold their last umbrella?

Bruce was born on Ontario Falls, Wisconsin, and came to Southern Missionary College from Lima, LaSalle Academy. Besides being treasurer of the Associated Student Body at Lima, Bruce has been secretary very capable on the art staff of the school year. Many of us will remember Bruce for the fine art work he did to promote this year's school picnic.

President T. W. Walters stated that the building will contain classrooms and laboratory space for the new sciences department featuring modern kitchen appliances, as well as a specially planned living quarters room. There will be a complete apartment unit, including living room, dining room, and kitchen, for the use of the home economics students in the preparation and serving of meals and entertaining guests.

A student avian room covering 800 square feet will be located in this building and so to be used as a social center where the young birds can meet and eat. The new dining hall and kitchen also contains an important part of the building.

The structure is planned on a modified oblong site, in harmony with the present brick buildings of the campus, but it will have more window space. Bushnell and Hyde, of Chattanooga, are the architects of the building which will cover approximately 10,000 square feet of floor space.

It is hoped that student help can complete most of the construction under the supervision of Perry Coulter of the building and grounds department. President Walters hopes to have these new facilities ready for use by the fall of 1959. Preliminary plans of the building can be seen in the '58 summer school year. This is the first of several

New SA Elections Name Publications Editor and Chairman

By DON WILSON

The first election of the 1957-1958 school year was held on Monday morning, September 16, during the Student Association (S.A.) hour. Approximately 85 per cent of the student body participated in this very important election.

Anna Jean Robinson, a vocation English major, was overwhelmingly chosen as this year's SECRETARY. ACERT editor. His home is in Dayton, Tennessee, and she is a graduate of Little Creek Academy. Anna Jean takes up her new responsibility with a great deal of experience, having edited her academy paper for two years.

Bruce Kappala, a quiet but capable young man with a fair fur for his work, is the year's Publications Committee chairman. UP IN AIR

Miss Maude Jones Takes to the Air At 85 Years of Age

By DON FARRIS

Miss Maude Jones, English teacher here from 1917 until her retirement in 1952, recently made her first trip by air. She departed at Chattanooga's Lynch Field upon her return from a visit to relatives in Memphis.

Miss Jones stated that she was a little nervous at first, but that the ride could not be described except as a slight headache which she attributed to the puffing of the engines.

Miss Jones was thumped with the fact that the airplane trip lasted only two hours, as compared with seven hours by bus or train. She has decided that hereafter most of her traveling will be by air!

Ed McCuan and the newspaper crew very favorably publicized Don Short told how they had obtained the women's club house for their meetings. He said the building was favorably built and at least with very comfortable seating. At the time, he did the attendance fall below 75 during the week night, and from 200 to 250 on Sunday night.

Elder Don Kepner, pastor of the newly organized church company in St. Matthews, Kentucky, stated that the new company was organized July 20 with 85 charter members. He also reported $2,800 in the treasury for the building fund. "I hope," he says, "they are searching for a lot, and he is adding SMC to the list of companies to pray that God will help them find just the right lot. He said he felt that the fact that he is a member of the Lord, pray the same of the Lord."

Students from the college participated in the Don C. Short, Ed McCuan, and Don Kepner. They all received the fact that the church is a member of the Lord's church. Don C. Short is a member of the Lord's church. Don C. Short is a member of the Lord's church.

Several from the Louisville area were present for the symposium and panel report. They are: Dr. H. P. Powers, from the West Valley church, and Dr. H. P. Powers, from the West Valley church. Dr. H. P. Powers is a member of the Lord's church.

Mrs. Gardner Rests After Accident: No Registration Duties Now

Often we wonder what the Registrar of a college does after registration is over. There is much work to be done. It is, in Mrs. E. B. Gardner, the registrar of SMC, well known. There are grades to be distributed, great piles of papers to be filed, program cards to be kept up to date, and innumerable questions to be answered.

Mrs. Gardner has held many positions in the denomination and has fulfilled them all excellently. As a missionary in India she was called to a faithful field by all who knew her. One can imagine her telling her students in India some interesting stories as well as listening to their own stories of test, heartache, or even.

Many people will remember her as an author of books and short stories: Love and India, God and Happiness, and God and the Indian. A few examples of her work SMC is working on another at the present time.

Mrs. Gardner's main interest is not that most of us should know—people she is willing to help any one and anyone who comes to her for counsel. Her ability to cope with problems is almost unmeasurable.

Mrs. Gardner served as dean of women at West India Training College for approximately three years. With her good nature and her ability, most have been a competent dean.

Here at SMC, she is most helpful as "Joan". When SMC was working for accreditation Mrs. Gardner contributed a great deal of time and effort. Her faithfulness to her duties and to the school has made her a favorite of the SMC staff.

WORLDWIDE CRUSADE FOR CHRIST AND ABUNDANT LIVING

The 1957-1958 year began registration at 7:30 a. m. Monday, September 9. From that hour onward many homes and trailer schools progressed through the various steps which the freshmen were presented with the full battery of freshmen tests.

The 1957-1958 steps were set up on the laboratory and library building. A student with this step was numbered and a check of instructions for completing the steps was given. Elder D. A. Deafield, secretary of Home Without Walls, conducted the fall week of spiritual emphasis on the campus of SMC during the week of September 27 to October 5.

Elder Deafield has a background of rich experience, having worked extensively with Adult Youth. He is the father of ten teenage children. He has been the associate editor of the Review and Herald and Elder H. M. S. Roberts in the Voice of Prophecy newspaper.

The opening meeting of the series was held at the regular vesper hour Friday evening, September 27. Elder Deafield spoke at the eleven o'clock hour Sabbath morning, and again at sundown midweek on the college chapel. The meetings continued through the week with prayer bands meeting for fifteen minutes before the chapel hour, and Elder Deafield addressing the student body at the chapel hour each day. Further emphasis was given to the spiritual objectives of the week at a point assembly in the college chapel at the evening vesper hour.

Elder Deafield lectured in each evening an interview with students concerning problems that young people face today. There were two of these and addressed the students by the Ten Commandments as a theme for each meeting.

Throughout the week different groups of the student body have been conducting prayer bands.

ACCENT ON . . .

Collegiate Academy

Editorial . . .

THINGS YOU WILL NEVER FORGET

This is your first year at Collegiate; maybe this is your first year away from home. You have been here for one busy month. Already you have missed writing home once, already you have found someone you will plan to write to, come next vacation. Now Mr. Hoar's office, so formidable on registration day, is the home of a friend and counselor. Now you have met many personalities in the forms of your registrar, Mrs. Ansherman, and her busy secretary, Jo Taylor.

You had not been here ten minutes when someone introduced himself and you had a new friend. By now you know many friends who will follow you through school and through life. Your roommate, your best friend, your closest classmate, that favorite teacher—these you will never forget.

Editorials you may soon forget, some you will never even read, but the dorm columns by Chick Hodges and Pauline James represent you and your life here on campus. These columns represent some of the great events in your life, there you will never forget.

Maybe you came here from Alabama and were really surprised that you could understand someone from Oregon or New York. Maybe it is you who was lucky and drew a Spanish roommate to help you with your most difficult course. You are first real conversation in Spanish is a milestone which will take you out of the "beginning" class. No longer must you humbly bow and mutter, "Si" or "Un poco" now you have a second tongue you will never forget.

One day next year your fellows will remember Collegiate very kindly when you do remember to do everything right that day, but dinner date—when you do everything just as you did in Collegiate Cafeteria, Mrs. Williams' dormitory.

You'll forget what was said in early morning worship when you were so very sleepy, but you'll never forget your part in Sabbath school—how Mom would like to hear that. You will forget this SOUTHERN ACCENT but not before this way real southern accent comes part of your life. Here is a way real southern accent comes part of your life. Here is a way real southern accent comes part of your life.

Roberson Named Academy Dean

This fall Miss Louise Roberson takes up her new duties as dean of the academy girls here at Collegiate Academy. Since this is the third vacancy and the fourth academy in which Miss Roberson has served in this capacity, one can hardly say that the job itself is new, to Miss Roberson.

Miss Roberson has had almost forty-five experience since her graduation in 1912 from Pacific Union College where she majored in home economics and minored in French. She graduated in 1912 from Pacific Union College where she majored in home economics and minored in French. She graduated in 1912 from Pacific Union College where she majored in home economics and minored in French.

Miss Roberson likes to remember when she found herself in Georgetown, Austria as an English teacher. Although well prepared to teach English in the United States, she lacks of any significant knowledge of German countries and is at a difficult task. One, when she assigned the Lord's Prayer in English, she was confronted with the question, "Can you say it in German?" This she did in German.

She has been teaching in English for students learned it in English. It has been said that she has been teaching in English for students learned it in English. It has been said that she has been teaching in English for students learned it in English.

Annex Antics

By PAULINE JAMES

Now that the "SMOG" of registration and new names, new faces, new places, new friends, new life is beginning to take on the familiar quality of old friends, books, teachers, study periods, church, worship, new friends, and changes.

The sides of the "little white cottage" (Girls Annex) are being introduced with 10 to 15 students, who come from 11 states, Europe, and Asia.

You must get acquainted with one of our new girls, Corie Scott, who completed her last lap of college the globe on some sort of school here from her home in Tada Asia. Her name is Tada Asia.

At 7:15 every morning we all scramble out of bed to have our morning devotions conducted by Mrs. Miss Roberson. She always has some very inspirational thoughts that give us guidance through each day.

Almost 15 minutes a day are devoted to our housekeeping, which is sweeping the basement, scrubbing the bathroom, cleaning the parlor, and mopping the kitchen. We may not enjoy work that is so close to home, but it is necessary for the well-being of the school.

One of our girls had a several ball game down on the field, and some of the academy boys came down to our house to support them. Unpleasant! What do I smell, surely not pizza pie! Yes, that's right, we had a pizza pie party the chafers are. None other than Patry James and Nancy Small understood that they should be "college" guests.

In the middle of June, cleaning one day, three of our girls from Birmingham had emptied every thing into the middle of the floor, just when they were being visited within five minutes, so into the clothes and under the beds everything went! When the maids arrived, they found a very neat and clean room and were pleased with what they saw. The careful neat girls, they may not give you five minutes notice.

We want to express our thanks to our dean who is beyond our substitute mother while we are away from home. We are sure that this will be the best school year ever!

This year in Collegiate Academy's Annex Hall, we have many new acquaintances. We are sure we all feel that way for the first time in our academic careers. We think we have one of the best places in the South to attend school and get a good education. We are sure we all feel that way for the first time in our academic careers.

Jan Rushing Elected Prexy of Upsilon Delta Phi Club

Jan Rushing, a business major from Pemiscot, Florida, was elected prexy of the Phi Upsilon Delta Phi Club this semester.

Rushing is a graduate of Collegiate Academy, and attended SMC his freshman year at Jacksonville. He has been here for two years he has studied Missions. He has a variety of interests, and has many nice sports. Rushing says that one of his operations and support of the club members he expects to have one of the most profitable and enjoyable years in the history of Upsilon Delta Phi.

Clubs Organize New System: Hobby, Professional, and Service

DAVE PATEL

The organizational structure of the clubs of SMC will be considerably altered this year, according to Dick Kennedy, president of the Club Officers' Council. This year the various clubs will be divided into three main categories: professional, service, and hobby.

The professional and service clubs will operate under the sponsorship of the Student Association. The hobby clubs will be sponsored by the MV Society.

GARDNER

Due to an unfortunate accident Miss Gardner is not at school at present, but we are all looking forward to her return from Jamaica where she is cross-country.

Sun Shines Finally: Permits Picnic Fun

Students and faculty of SMC observed the annual school picnic on Tuesday, September 24. Despite the fact that rain had been the order of the day since registration began, Tuesday morning dawned with clear skies.

The student body who was divided into two groups—the ones who were home, began with the letter from A to I, and the ones whose names began with the letters from M to Z. (Obtain recent tag-no-wax, egg, tennis, football, basketball, volleyball, baseball, and horseshoes give ample opportunity to each side to "chalk up" points.)

In the midst of the festivities, hands were served in the student par. The menu consisted of meat, rice and gravy, lamb, fruit salad, salad, and coffee. A choice of either a pecan pie, but with each course.

Some 1000 baseball fans trading in from the ball field, weary collectors of the items were given from the courts, and skate-laden residents of Madox Jones Hall came from the direction of the pavilion. A delicious meal of symbolic, bread, salad, rolls, punch, and lemonade was served.

To crown the day, the film "The Student Body" was shown in the college chapel at 7:30. Those responsible for planning and promoting the picnic were: Don Silver—recitation; David Hamilton, Don Crum, and Carl Strand—food and lemon punch; Cliff Burgess—entertainment; Dave Paul—preparation of programs; and Bruce Hopkins—drumming.

Paul Hoar Assumes Principalship

Mr. Paul J. Hoar has assumed the duties of principal of Collegiate Academy this year as well as teaching algebra and geometry. He is in charge of Collegiate, however, having taught science and mathematics here for a number of years.

Mr. Hoar reports that nearly 130 have registered to classes up to this time plus several college students who are taking just one math class in the academy. There have been a very few drop outs, but he considers the outlook good for this time of year.

Both academy dormitories are held "alumni" to capacity, and the girls' annex has this year for the first time a parlor where the girls may conduct their own workshops.

Lorene Ausherman Undertakes Duties Of Registrar

By ELEANOR GREATHY We have a new registrar for the academy this year in the person of Mrs. Lorene Ausherman. She teaches health for the ninth and tenth grades, and is associate leader of the Academy Sabbath School division.

She has been teaching two daughters attending college here, and she herself completed her B.A. degree here in 1953. Last year Mrs. Ausherman was study help supervisor, but this year she has a much broader job—that of taking care of the absences and tardiness of the academy students, as well as recording all the grades.

Elementary Students Enter New Building

By VIRGINIA NICK We are under solemn, sacred covenant to God to bring up our children to Him and for the world, to teach them not to perjure their hands into the hands of the world, and to fear God, and to keep His commandments.

Although in this date there still remain some 1271 in conjunction with their work from the pen of Ellen G. STUDENTS ENJOY FROLIC WITH ACFTY

The old tradition of faculty home parties, going out on date as rapidly as possible—dis en academi, was revived and re-created with the modern touch on the campus of SMC the night of October 5, 1957.

Duncan U'phalen's faculty home party especially attracts the guests because of the parties to the original SMC plan which facilitated the student hosts to whom the faculty invited and invited home. By allowing the student hosts and hostesses to plan the evening and meet the guests, the maximum amount of participation was obtained.

Here are a few of the highlights of some of the parties.

The host and hostess at the Marble Home, Bob Ingram and Marjorie Dixon, were the only married students present at the party of twelve. They report that the topic of conversation centered around children, and that the party broke up a little earlier than most of the others so the parents could return their babies and tuck their offspring in for the night. However, Bob and Marjorie reported that everyone had a grand time playing various games and playing cards. Another highlight of the evening was the taking of some interesting pictures by Bob.

who is the ACFTY photographer.

The best and jolliest at the Heifer home, Richard Bodand and Joan Bell, reported a truly notable time on pictures. After supper was served the party went to O'Leary's, a large night club, to the home of a lady with a large wardrobe of clothing she is dressing and clothing. The guests report a very enjoyable and interesting evening.

The host and hostess at the Quinn home, Kenneth Barry and Betty Carran, along with Dr. and Mrs. Choun, are reported to have conducted an evening full of delicious home-cooked food and delicious party games.

These reports are just a few samples of the 24 parties conducted throughout the year. It is concluded that faculty home parties are here to stay.

It is for the faith we have in the boys and girls of today who will be leaders in God's cause tomorrow.

It is for the interest each individual will in this new area in the training of the youth through the Pathfinder program.

It is for the necessity of devotion to this type of program, for we know that they are accountable to God for the training and education of our children.

It is for the diligence of the boys and girls in pursuing their MV habits as well as in the various tasks they undertake in crafts, hobbies, or sports.

The staff listened to helpful and sound suggestions from Eddie Robinson and Miss Adkins as they finished the meal dessert.

Dep Don Wilson Reviews Objectives Of Student Senate

By DON WILSON, Vice President

Many new and even older ideas seem to me neither the purposes and objectives of their Student Senate. Some people may view it as a wobbly enterprise at best, or often as a booby trap for a few campus "whirls." Some say it is a sham, or a self-perpetuating clique who have only their self-interest at heart. This is unfortunately untrue.

The object of the Student Senate is to provide a place where the student ideas may be organized and put into action, it is a place where any student is welcome and regarded to have his views given every opportunity at the regular Student Senate meetings. If you are unable to attend, speak to one of the Secretaries who will be more than happy to represent you. The Student Council members whose suggestions or workable projects they represent you for their benefit. There are many challenges, and as circumstances thus we will be strengthening our Student Activities Council and our beloved Southern Methodist College.

The visit was led by Dr. Frank Ware, who spent a year in England during the summer of 1862. The tour was a most interesting and profitable one.

The next visit was to York City. A number of places and things in this city are of interest to the group of collegians. These included a visit to the Statue of Liberty, the headquarters of the United Nations, and the top of the Empire State Building.

Wilhelmsen Tells Of Ancient Lore

A very informative and entertaining program was presented at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, October 26, in the administrative building by Mr. William Wilhelmsen, advertiser, explorer, and historian.

Born in Detroit, Michigan, and educated at St. Joseph's College, Indiana, Mr. Wilhelmsen had early interests in the stage and spent two successful seasons on the New York Broadway stage. He also showed much interest in history and travel during his early life and the love and lure of these subjects soon got the better of his love for the stage.

Mr. Wilhelmsen has been officially certified by the committee with the discovery of an unknown ancient culture, the legendary lost city of Hاضوس, which was the American Geographical Society has used the data obtained by him to correct their map of Hispania, America.

The presentation gives here by Mr. Wilhelmsen was a film-lecture on Bolivia. Rather than just state the usual high points this lecture delved into the historical and cultural traditions of the lost mountain country in the western world. Some of the features of the film were views of beautiful Lake Titicaca, a breathtaking ride on the Bolivian Maudslayi Railway, and remote villages of the famous yungas warriors.

We shall remember that program as one of the most outstanding lecture presentations of this year.

SMC TEMPERANCE CHAPTER ORGANIZED WITH ORVILLE SWARNER AS PRESIDENT

The Southern Missionary College Chapter of the American Temperance Society has been organized. The president of the chapter is Orville Swarner, Norma Grubb, and Dick Swarner as the vice presidents for MJH and T respectively. John A. Baker is the secretary, and Judy Smith is the treasurer. As acting sponsor is Professor Arberman who has had considerable experience in the temperance field, and has been very able in his work as temperance lecturer for the Georgia-Tennessee Conference during the years 1946, '47, '48.

In a chapel program Friday, October 11, Professor Arberman presented the SMC Society to the student body. He made the statement that the South Bay Adventists have the exclusive right in leading one in the temperance work. People in other organizations would be unable to ask temperance questions, and that their congregations probably would take the "social plan." Perhaps the greatest hope for the temperance work is engaged

J. E. Edwards Visits Campus Next Week

Editor J. E. Edwards of the General Conference Home Missionary Movement, Washington, D. C., will arrive on our campus Friday, November 8, and in our luncheon Friday evening he will then colored shirts and appeal on South America and the need there Sabbath and will deliver the eleven o'clock message.

Editor Will of the Southern Union will speak to us in chapel Monday. Twenty local union conference workers are expected on the SMC campus to help with this great work. It is believed that we can send out 65 to 70 cans of young people to Ingomar during the Ingomarling Field Day, Nov. 13-15. We would like to send out 100 cans if possible. There is territory for anyone who wishes to go.

The territory to be covered is a 125 mile radius around Collegedale. Farm homes, towns, villages, and cities will all be covered.

Of course, everyone can't go out because industries and offices must be kept going, however, everyone who wishes to go should let those who remain behind take their days wages or turn in a nametag from the SMC.

The goal set for this territory is $15,000, and $9,000 has been raised through business concerns and other sources. There is a goal of $5,000 to be reached before our total goal and victory is won. Let's each do our part behind the program and give it a final push over the top.

Industrial Arts Building Starts

The first of October, work was started on the addition to the Industrial Arts Building. This addition behind the Administration Building will cover approximately 10,000 square feet. The building has approved $5,000 for this extension and new equipment.

The new room will contain a two cycle auto machine which will be a spray booth with a hydraulic lift, a spray booth with a fan exhaust, a tool crib for auto machines and equipment. In conjunction with the department, a parking lot is being constructed. The work on this extension is expected to be completed for second semester classes.

The class of building technology and industrial arts problems during the year, and he has served as SMC's Ad Forum secretary and Industrial Arts department in present years.

Leaving the USA, Don Hall set the pace for South America with his mambo solo, "Romance Anonymous." One could visualize a dreamy moon as the Southern Midland song "Boppy Blue, O Moon." Spiced with a natural Spanish flavor, Bob Arns sang "Granada," and Ann Davidson's "Celtic Lark" truly lifted one's spirit to the beautiful sky of which the song bore witness.

Leaving the Land of Romance, Katherine Micklewright and Cliff Burgess sang "Chopinistas."

New Truck Insures Product Deliveries

—Bluff-Top Collegedale Creamery has a new truck.

Well, even though you may not be a direct customer of the Creamery, you are a recipient of several of its products through the medium of the store and the cafeteria. It therefore has an indirect bearing on all of Collegedale.

This new addition will undoubtedly mean increased business production to ease, for new customers and the added expense of more prompt and efficient service to the areas surrounding Chatta nooga and Collegedale and therefore a great asset to our college.

SUNDIN PRESENTS "THE GOSPEL TEAM"

Elder C. H. Sundin, Associate Secretary of the Medical Department of the General Convention, arrived at the SMC campus November 14 to spend a few days with the college students in the interest of the medical work in this denomination.

On Wednesday evening Elder Sundin spent the worship period with religious and medical majors, presenting to them the need for a concerted vision of their calling. The subject of his presentation was "The Gospel Team"—The Great Commission. He brought out the fact that the concept of the gospel team including the medical workers was unique to this denomination, that no other church has this as the gospel ministry.

This concept was substantiated by the illustration of the life of Jesus. His command to His disciples, and by the words from the Pen of Inspiration: "If ever the Lord has spoken by me, He speaks when I say that the workers engaged in educational lines, in ministerial lines, and in missionary lines, must stand as a unit, all laboring under the supervision of God, one helping the other, each blessing each."

Students Choose Faculty Counselors

During October the faculty was asked which of them would consent to be counselors for the students. All of them agreed to take part in this project.

The list of names was placed on sheets of paper, and these were placed out in shops for the students to give their first, second, and third choices of whom each wanted as a counselor. They were tabulated in the Dean's office, and each student was given a card as possible, his first choice. Each student was given a list of students whom he was to counsel. The counselor is to write his letters to these students informing them why their counselor was to be.

The counselor's job is to try in any way to help the students. The students should feel free to go to their counselors with any problem they have in their classes or for any religious guidance they need.

Crane Leads Effort In East Brainerd

The opening night for a Voice of Youth Effort to be held in East Brainerd has been set for January 11, 1958. The singing for the series of meetings is approximately eight miles from the SMC campus. The meetings will be held every Friday and Sunday night for seven weeks.

This is another in the series of Voice of Youth Efforts which are being held all over the world by the youth of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination. All of the meetings will be planned and coordinated mainly by students of Southern Missionary College. There will be four speakers each evening, consisting of two boys and two girls, who will present the basic doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. All of the special music and the conducting of the song services will be done by the students. A series of student speakers reveals a great deal of enthusiasm for the effort. Many students will participate in the program, all through a 121 plan, or 100 stamp. Working bands are to be chosen within three weeks. There will be a case of finances, arranging transportation, and to enter the meetings. Literature bands will distribute literature before the opening night of the effort in order to create an interest in the community.

Elder H. V. Hendrick is the director of the effort, with Elder Paul Boynton as his associate. The student director is Don Crane and associates are Bill Henson and Judy Smith. The remaining officers have yet to be chosen.

YOUTH'S CONGRESS

"The Year Ended '57" led the theme of a dramatized presentation Friday evening. This was an effective adaptation of the story by Ernest Reid which appeared in The Times. Elder E. S. Reitz, MV secretary of the Georgia-Carolina Conference, along with Elder Gordon Hyde, chairman of the SMC Speech Department, put much time and effort into making this program a success. The play is scheduled around the year being Christ's second coming. The world was presented as controlled by one power was John D. Day was portrayed by Elder Reitz in the above part. Dick Tomlin was seen as Eddie McAllen, as Carl Day's assistant, and Stanley Stenitzer as TV news commentators.

A hit was made by Dorothy Egan-Akersen's vocal solo, an arrangement of Are You Ready for Jesus to Come? and "Will You Meet Me in the Kingdom?"

Fifts Guy Speaks
Sabbath morning many of the students were made very comfortable by coming earlier than usual for a joint worship in the college chapel. Elder Euse G. presented the main theme of the night, "The Christ Who is at a man with great mental power, superior physical strength and with spiritual power which is available to all—a Jesus that is attractive to youth. He is not a task master; he is not a disciplinarian, but a life of Christ like Jesus in our lives and our projects that binders our lives."

As a Sabbath school began with a song service led by Elder F. W. Foster, MV secretary for the Florida Conference. Elder S. W. House, Missionary Secretary of GA, came as superintendent. For the lesson study, a panel discussion of the day's theme, "Christians as Book Readers," conducted by Jack Kautler, Kenneth Hill, Walter, Carl Booker, Kenneth Kautler and Dick Reitz. Elder Foster served as moderator. The mission appeal was extended by Mrs. Emil Boren, who was the moderator. She introduced as a missionary, she told of the persecutions sometimes endured by those people because they are Christians. The benediction was given by Elder Teddie Meibi, MV secretary of the Kentucky Conference.

Choir Signs
The college choir, led by Prof. M. W. Hill, sang to the ministers entered for the worship service. The offering was furnished by the String Ensemble. Elder E. Lucas presented a challenging sermon in which he asked the question, "Is there anything to be done for God today?" and "Who will do it?" He related the history of our MV work from its beginnings with Luther Warren and Messiah McQueen up to the present time.

At 2:15 the Tabernacle again was almost filled with people as Elder Reitz, Mohr, and Foster led out in a musical cascade of hymns, songs, the well-known and loved choruses and gospel songs led by these enthusiastic youth leaders. The congregational singing was generally interpreted with special numbers including two quartets by the Adolphus Mott Quartet.

The Golden Anniversary program began at 3:15. The first section of this was led by Elders Murr and Moore. They interviewed a group of Pathfinders who answered the question, "What can boys and girls do on Sabbath afternoon?"

Speech Men Interviewed
In the next section of the program Elder Hennrich interviewed a "speech man" Looking objectively at "curbing" he felt that men can degenerate. The objectives and value of the Youth's Institute were forcibly brought to our attention by the next section by Elder Fitz Gary.

Teachers Attend Knoxville Meeting

Recently at 7:55 in the morning, Professor Cooper thought he was on his way to a ball in front of the first dormitory. There, Alex Phoenix, Shirley Pendleton, Faye Hays, Kenneth Phillips, and Doctor K. M. Kennedy joined him to make the trip to the East Tennessee Education Association meeting at Knoxville. This group attended the message of the Association of Student Teachers, the Elementary School Principals, the Association of Childhood Education, International, and the Health Education meetings.

At the general session of the convention, the group had the privilege of hearing Paul Harvey, nationally known author, columnist, speaker on world affairs, and news analyst, speak on "Drama in the News".

The students came back to the college, loaded with all kinds of textbooks, materials and catalogs that were collected from the 20 displays of school textbooks and supplies. From his contacts with the textbook publishers, Dr. Kennedy was able to obtain over a hundred dollars worth of new textbooks for the curriculum laboratory.

The group not only had the privilege of attending the meetings but also were able to become personally acquainted with some of the national leaders in education.

Each one who is designed to train someone here can be, Elder Foster says. He was interviewed by an offstage court which represented the "senior thoughts of the congregation."

To show how effective Youth of Youth affairs can be, Elder Foster interviewed 40 young persons who have helped conduct those meetings. Betty Edwards, Shirley Packlett, Don Farris, and Bill Horton told how these efforts helped them personally as well as to bring souls into the Kingdom. Bill H. Nelson stated that 113 people have been baptized to date in the Southern Union as a result of youth efforts.

Youth Activity Reviewed
Elder Lucas was chairman of the last section in which young people were carrying signs describing different types of youth activity brought into the platform and placed there on a large banner "On the theme: 'Sharing the Faith of Our Fathers'."

Elder Yost was chairman of the first section, which featured a band concert presented by the SMC Band under the direction of Paul Boren. A packed audience then enjoyed next some slides shown by Elder T. E. Lucas de section of Ministry. Val waters around the world included various scenes of our MV youth in various parts of the world.

Academy Strips 1951 Plymouth

Many Holy month that the academy auto mechanics class has finished and repaired a 1951 Plymouth. This was put through to do in order to study as their class project. As a part of the industrial curriculum, the class plans to contract a entirely new body repair department.

The class has already introduced the school and organized position in English and reading. The committee consisted of the educational superintendent and secretary of the Southern Union, plus Miss Myrtle Maxwell of Atlanta, Miss Leavening of the Florida Conference, and Dr. K. M. Kennedy of Southern Nazarene College Educational Department.

Committees were established to work under the direction of the educational department of Southern Nazarene College to give study to the approval of the training program and to clarify some of the factors of the alternative plan of curricula.

The textbook classes of the college will be used for some of the research needed to be done in finding the best textbooks to be used for elementary and secondary schools. Mr. S. H. Hanson, the Union secretary, was the chairman of the meeting.

The Business Administration Department of SMC is now studying opportunities for those who are interested in business or secretarial work.

This year the number of students enrolled in the curriculum area of business has grown to over 300, including equally divided work for secretarial students and about 60 in business students.

There is at the present time a situation in the United States that encourages business majors to be in great demand. As Miss Kaptekin stated, "The opportunities are unlimited. The demand is never met, either theoretically or actually."

She stated that business majors are taking five courses of study, the one year, the two year, and the four year. The two year course has just been in operation since the school year 1946-47 and Charlotte Blair, Carolyn Numbers, and Phyllis Taylor Young were the first three to finish this course.

John Amherst, who is a four-year graduate, will be starting an extensive survey on the Southern Union campus next winter. The survey will be of the different business methods at the various offices of the Union.

All college students who have completed typing can be added for typing 13 first semester students in all levels of secretarial typing. The typing class has been offered in the matter what course of study one wishes to pursue.

Students graduating from the business administration program will receive a variety of positions such as advertising, selling, marketing, accounting, and general office management.

In the course of their studies, the students will be given a course in typing approved, and those graduating as CPAs are able to obtain one of the most desirable positions.

In the Business Division there are four courses of study, including secretarial, business administration, and bachelor of science.

The teaching staff of the Business Division consists of Miss Thelma Blackburn, Miss Irma Jean Kopple, Mrs. P. J. Hunt (secretary), Mrs. M. H. Niska (in the classroom), Miss J. M. S. (secretary), Miss L. N. Holt, Mr. Charles Harmon, Jr., Mr. W. E. V. Davidson and Miss D. E. West.

The Business Club is both a student and a faculty organization. The club has a membership of about 100 students. The president is Ruth Moore, and Ann Foster is the vice president, with Wayne Durall as treasurer.

Textbook Group Surveys Studies

The heavy conference room was the setting for the meeting of the Southern Union Textbook Committee, which met last week reports on textbooks available in the field of English and reading. The committee consisted of the educational superintendent and secretary of the Southern Union, plus Miss Myrtle Maxwell of Atlanta, Miss Leavening of the Florida Conference, and Dr. K. M. Kennedy of Southern Nazarene College Educational Department.

More than 200 papers representing institutions of a medical nature were presented at the meeting in Canada as an attendant Association to member institutions consisting of 500 medical books for per year. This association is an organization which study in the conditions of the world, and to enter the process of a Christian character which objectives are in close harmony with the Second-day Sabbath School.

Davidson Attends Business Meeting

Mr. Ralph Davidson, the teacher of Accounting here at SMC, attended a meeting of the Association of Schools of Business in Colleges and Universities on November 7. The meeting was held in Memphis, Tennessee. There were 100 persons present, including the deans of business colleges from such universities as Harvard, Columbia, Florida, Georgetown, Duke, and North Carolina, and also representatives from many other colleges. In order to be a member of the Association the University must have a college of business within it, but representatives from all colleges are invited. The Dean of Harvard University spoke at the luncheon here in the evening. The leading addresses were read all of these present to discuss and discuss two problems of schools of business: (1) the problem of colleges and universities being able to compete with industries in good teaching, and (2) what the curriculum should include to meet the needs of industry. The speakers proposed for these problems were: (1) the possibility of using part time teachers and the colleges having their own salaried, and the raising of teachers' salaries, and (2) the standardization of the quality of the curriculum being taught. The problems were discussed on both the graduate and undergraduate level.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held in the spring near Knoxville, Tennessee.

Chiapas Mission Helped by SMC

An appeal for a Christmas gift for the people of Chiapas, Mexico, was presented during the chapel hour December 11 by the officers of Christ's Foreign Legion, 2000, Hamilton Avenue, Memphis. Frank Anderson, Dr. B. Underhill as the speaker of the meeting. Dr. Underhill gave to the audience a description of the conditions in Chiapas, which he had seen during a field trip in 1956 when securing the self-supporting fund established by Ray and Marie Constock.

The main objective of the Constocks, Dr. Underhill stated, is to build a model village to use as a clinic in teaching the natives how to live.

Yield Short made the final appeal, asking the student body to give in cash or pledges money just sufficient to build one house.

How many times that past week did you hear these words: "Have you purchased your ticket for Saturday evening's program yet? Only $50 for students and faculty; $100 for others?" If you never once heard this statement, you may rest little time in the vicinity of Maude Jones Hall, or most anywhere in the campus for that matter. We are sure that most of you were aware of the part practically every young lady in the Dasowakita House had in preparing the presentation of the "Hour of Charm" which was scheduled for Saturday evening, December 7, at 8:00 p.m. For some of our committees were working feverishly, house to house soliciting for funds through the sale of tickets was done in the afternoon, and performers were practicing faithfully every evening.

By 7:00 p.m. Saturday evening most of the young ladies were gathered (think to some extent you thought of your work in the "Hour of Charm" had begun.

After a few words of introduction by Miss Lucy Watkins, president of the Daughters of the Kingdom, a few words of prayer by the beloved dean of the troubadour of the Southland, Stephen Foster, followed. were Betty Matti, Shirley Pacheco and Irene Cook. Also soloists sang by Anne Dardson and Dorothy Anderson. Dr. Harvey Ritchie was the guest tenor soloist for the evening.

Miss Mabel Ward was the organist and Rex Bell, Myron the pianist for the choir. The string section of the orchestra, playing the Overture and Pastoral Suite, was directed by Mr. Hill.

The program was given in Lyon Wood Hall since the auditorium better for church group.

In a word, the college has an excellent equipment. Its attention will be given to this phase of the course. However, Professor Hyde will give the introductory principle

Elements of Radio and Television is a three hour upper division course covering up to 7:30 p.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday will be entered by the student of the instructor. The course promises to be a great deal of fun in addition to being practical in nature for a reasonable amount of work.

In our efforts, it can come to be used by the speech department's student speaker. The efforts of Radio and Television in making the potentialities, influence, and development of, both.

Professor Gordon Hyde, chair of the radio department of speech, will be the course a combination of the preparation and presenting all programs. Technical and business aspects, reports, student operators, directors, and script writers can be covered by this course. This provides for complete broadcast recording which facilitates later use.

A laboratory session in connection with the course is to be arranged in the market. This includes work on a knowledge of microphones, radio control equipment, and finalization.

Chemistry Dept. Adds New Items

The chemistry department of SMC has recently received several new items of equipment, according to Dr. John Christensen, chairman of the Division of Natural Science. The equipment will be put to use in the various classes of the department.

The most important new instrument is the spectrophotometer which will be used in the qualitative analysis class and possibly in the general chemistry class. The spectrophotometer is based on the principle of reflectance but based on the property of all elements having characteristic lines in their spectra which represent the wave-length of light given off by the elements. The material to be analyzed in class is a nitrate and solution between two platinum electrodes. When an electric current is passed between the electrodes, the material goes to a constant temperature, and the lines given off are then compared with known standards.

The department also added a glass tank to complete a constant temperature bath for physical chemistry experiments. This bath will be able to maintain a constant temperature to within a one-hundredth degree Fahrenheit.

A solution large lamp to be used in conjunction with a polarimeter is a welcome addition to the chemistry laboratory. This new instrument is highly accurate and is used to determine the optical activity of substances. The readings were taken when the readings were taken with the solution. The lamp is a constant temperature bath.

All Kinds of Christmases . . .

This is the season when one hears as many ways of saying "Merry Christmas" as there are human beings. These people are the happiest of all our friends; we are made glad by their company.

Some see you say, "Merry Christmas, bud, sorry I'm too busy buying presents to speak to you about that problem." Then they wonder if presents, dinner, noise, and parties truly represent the spirit of the Christ Child.

A few people seem almost afraid to speak. They wish you, "I've wronged you this year, friend; still, I eyes you a very Merry Christmas."

Then there are even those cold personalities who will recognize no Christmas at all. They rub past us absorbed in the problems of the world, problems at home, problems they have to meet, problems they have only imagined.

Some of these people we like, while others leave us cold. Friends, is it possible that to different people we may play different roles as you say, "Merry Christmas," this year? Are there not those whose company you enjoy and those whose presence you have made unusually uncomfortable? Is there not those whose eyes you can never quite meet as you extend the season's greetings? The spirit of this season makes it both imperative and easy for you to remove any such blemish from your happiness.

From your editor, "Merry Christmas, and may God bless you in this season as you become a greater blessing to others." G. K.

Casa Valle Serves Spaghetti to Boys

The evening of December 8, our Casa Valle Club prepared a spaghetti supper for the academy boys. All day the girls started gathering the baskets of the academy students' home building work for the night. It was on a winter theme, there were blue lights, candles, and lots of snow fluff for decoration. The girls reviewed the beauty of snow.

From Man Ward played violin and orchestra music to his accompaniment, Shirley Curtis and Veronica Walker gave several readings and pantomimes, and Andy Barnes, the girls' club president and Sylvia Sidlen helped every one play a Mutual Romance game.

Holidays Provide Variety for Pupils

By CAROL ANN MYER
Have you ever stopped to think and wonder down all the things you are thankful for? I doubt if anyone has written anything because they would all be omitted.
Perhaps the things we overlook most in our thanksgiving, are those things which are small but which mean to a thoughtful person, a sunny smile on a dreary day, a true friend who stayed loyal even though we weren't what we should have been, the clear, fresh smell after a thunderstorm, the abundance of good books.
Before vacation Kenny Walters understandably told the world that everyone might as well have something to be thankful for in that busy season. Thanksgiving Day was his birthday. Hiskilly someone decided he needed some kind of celebration. During the day he received several phone calls, only to hear the strains of "Happy Birthday" ringing in his ears, some unknown persons.

Most of the community students stayed at home over vacation, except Dave and Paul which also went to Florida.

Christmas and a long vacation in the rear strained the center. The tribulations of Christmas trees, bright red stockings, a child's drawing eyes, the merry warbling of heartbeats, and the merry wailing in "Santa, yes!" and this knowing wink to "Mrs. Claus." All help to make Christmas what it is.
Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!

More About Amici

By DANNEY HOLLEY
Last Sunday saw one of our best from vacation and eager ("3") to start back in school. Some of us had to travel many miles while some did that Monday saw a lot of dragging feet and drooping spirits!

This week our principal, Mr. Hoar, has been away, so our fifth, seventh and eighth grades will be acting as principal, and many interesting things have been happening.

Last Wednesday in chapel Mr. Boynton was reading from the house roll when he noticed Paulie Benson passing some notes. He asked Benson to come up and read the note she just passed to Tommy Murrett. It read something like this:
My Dearest Tommy
I've always me just this opportunity to tell you how much I love to be with you every chance I get. This Sunday night the girls' club is having a spaghetti supper and I want you to go with me.
Love always,
Paulie

The really exciting news here is that, because no one had any idea that this was the anonymous account given to the girls' club, this was the second time the girls' club had caused a great controversy on the floor of the senate with the senators and girls who were on all the organs. Ultimately Don Wilson's amendment was passed.

Especially—For Freshmen

By JOAN KRIBBER
Dear Mom and Dad,
Thanksgiving days are over now, surely an glad! Just a few days and I'll be home.
You can't imagine the funny feeling I had as I got out of my stomach on Wednesday morning. I realized it was the day that everyone else was leaving. That's the feeling because my own stomach reached its peak when my own stomach pulled away at noon.
At dinner Wednesday, we all bawled one another up by speaking about the "what surprised you" out of the box, and how I took a crane like this to show who really had the best home. Some even made my head all their next few days!

Such remarks as those kept us going through an afternoon of snow—pleasure for some—and an evening of prior games. Several of the girls had their own "buge" with which had been accumulating for quite some time.

Eight o'clock Thanksgiving morning found a majority of us just turned over a sleeping eye. And we found much of the brains we had been employing all day and night, when all of a sudden, we got up. Mom and Dad, you know what these folks around here in the community must have known something about the feeling one has at a time such as that, and most of us were made out of their beds and the afternoon Oh, I ate it! And it was so good! Thank I'll never make it through the afternoon of the game. Then we gathered around the piano and sang—Christmas carols.

This evening was the longest I've all rest in the parker and were escorted to the dining room by a charming John and Joan. "My, my, you're just!" The tables were decorated with kites and candles. Research, I have been telling you about the food, it would take ages. I'll just let it be saying that when I see it.

And the simple man went home and read the Strum on the children. "If you ever see your Mother, how much more shall your Father - which is heaven give good things to them all?"

Suddenly, the Christmas Spirit is the gifts of the Christmas shoppers, why there was no joy in the holiday party, why there was no comfort in the cathedral. Only the children knew how to find the joy of Christmas, because only the children had faith in their hearts. He taught the faith of the shepherds and the Magi kneeling at the manger, and there in his very unremarkable home, without a word or a tear or a glowy bright gift near him, he found what none of his friends, who had all there, possessed—the Christmas Spirit.

A Christmas Parable

By OTTILIE FRANK STAFFEED
(FORNIE SMC. GUILD INSTITUCION)

One Christmas some ordinary men stopped for the first time to think about the meaning of Christmas and the source of its strange spell which follows me through the days of the story: "Peace on Earth," "Good Will to Men," "Joy to the World." So we set out to find the Spirit of Christmas.

This simple man had often read the story of Socrates and like most men he followed me through the days of the story. So he reasoned that the Christmas Spirit was a thing that it might be found among the people. Therefore, he explored the large department store of his city, searching for the faces of beautiful shoppers, looking for the joy which shines from the unselfish trading spheres, looking for the joy which shines from the unselfish trading spheres, looking for the joy which shines from the unselfish trading spheres.

Perhaps the Christmas spirit is not found in unselfish giving, but in joyfulness, he thought. And he went to the home of a friend who will refresh my mind. He found a young girl, Susan, who where an expensive and elaborate celebration was being held. So at such a party, he heard, there will be light-heartedness and happiness that will refresh my tired spirit and renew my faith in Christmas.

At first the marriage and excitement of the gathering made his hopes soar. He felt that the Christmas Spirit was in the air. He was so concerned with his own shadow, he found no true joy there. He left sadly, realizing that his associates had also forgotten the meaning of the holiday.

When Christmas is primarily a religious festival, he made his way through the bustling crowd of a city evening near a small boy, laughing with joy at the wonder of the snow. It was his son. He recalled that when he was that age he had heard all that, and he so heard, "Why are you happy now?"

"Because it's snowing and you're home and I'll soon be Christmas and there'll be lots of presents." He thought of the snow and he said, "You must have a great deal of faith in Santa Claus."

"Santa Claus? That's nobody real that's Santa. But you'll give me presents, Daddy. I have faith in you."

And the simple man went home and read the Strum on the children. "If you ever see your Mother, how much more shall your Father - which is heaven give good things to them all?"

Suddenly, the Christmas Spirit is the gifts of the Christmas shoppers, why there was no joy in the holiday party, why there was no comfort in the cathedral. Only the children knew how to find the joy of Christmas, because only the children had faith in their hearts. He taught the faith of the shepherds and the Magi kneeling at the manger, and there in his very unremarkable home, without a word or a tear or a glowy bright gift near him, he found what none of his friends, who had all there, possessed—the Christmas Spirit.

The eleven sisters marched into the Sanctuary church Friday and Sabbath led by Barbara Dalton, junior class president, and Jeanette Hubbard, vice-president. The entire junior class led the seniors on Sunday graduation exercises.

Over fifty people were present at the "Buffed Supt" given by the junior class in honor of those graduates. The party was held in the Lake building. The entire young people, Elder Knutson and Miss Shreve also furnished entertainment in the form of a tap, a duet, and a reading. Mrs. Clapp brought most of the food in preparation for a party. The student speakers are divided into four bands composed of both normal and temple students from all classes and year-classes, however, there are other bands and organizations working on this project such as various prayer bands, Bible Study Training, and Literature Distribution bands.

The effort is being presented with very limited budget, but, thanks to several civic minded citizens, the project will be wanting for nothing, the co-requisites such as hand bills and advertising posters which will be printed, free of charge, by the Star Printing Company of Chattanooga.

The following is a list of the speaking bands, dates of meetings, and sermon titles:

Little Choral Performs Saturday

One of the outstanding attractions of the SMC lyceum season will be a performance by the concert choir, The Little Choral, in the Tabernacle Auditorium at 8:00 p.m., February 1, 1958. G. M. Hyde, business administrator, announced to the Little Choral, included as a three musical nutcase, has parted tradition and is far in advance from the standard role ensemble.

Having established themselves as hopeful interpreters of the classic in hopeful singing arrangements of Schubert, Brahms, and Rongberg to name but a small portion of the magnificent repertoire of special Little Choral offerings, these choristers are staged and directed by three of the most gifted young men in New York.

"The Voice of Freedom" One of the most talented young American choral and orchestral conductors, William Johnson, his assistant conductor of the "Bury and Bury" production which toured the world, a former director at the Collegiate Church, Mr. Johnson is known for his work as the presentation of "Wonderful Town" a stage director of the Mouth Club record session, his Little Orchestra and Choral Art Societies. "First in the world" his joyous as his choral director.

Gene Boyce, who has worked with "The Voice of Freedom" as stage director of The Master Singer, has additional credits at the Birmingham Opera under the direction of the Birmingham City Sings, Colburn Music Center, and on numerous TV programs.

Consistently prepared for the superb symphony, choir, and saxophone which at readily communicated to all of their students, the members of the Little Choral are: Eugene Harold, Laura Frank, Joyce Harold, Rita Schoon, Lynn Doycher, Richard Paul, Howard Shaw, and John Smith. Their accompanist is Dubbs Frank.

Board Approves Dorm Construction, Road Paving, Campus Improvements

The regular 1958 session of the Southern Missionary College Board of Trustees met Thursday, January 16, on the SMC campus. The attendance was concentrated in the parlor of Maude Jones Hall at 8:30 a.m. and continued into the evening. The board assembled to lay plans for the operation and future expansion of the college.

T. W. Walters, president of Southern Missionary College, stated that the board gave evidence of understanding the problems facing SMC and higher education as a whole. This, he felt, was to a large degree responsible for the success of the council in its conduct of the college's current and projected college program.

During an interview Dr. Walters disclosed that many advanced projects taken The SOUTHERN ACCESS is the first publication to announce the fact that approval was given to the construction of a new women's dormitory. Plans will be developed at once to be studied and developed over a period of several months, and the beginning date of actual construction will be determined by the board within the year planned to house 250 students, this building, it is hoped, will be ready for occupancy by the first school year. It will be situated on the south end of the campus, immediately to the north of the small garage which flanks the tabernacle.

A further action provided that the industrial road, located to the rear of the principal college buildings, be paved from King's Bakery to the College Press and that it be continued to the academy building. This road is to be hard topped through the coming spring and summer and will eventually become a main thoroughfare.

A significant action of an academic nature conferred the honorary degree of Professor Emerita on two teachers who have received an international S.M.C. For her long and selfless service to this college, Mrs. Mary Hilder Dietel, M.A., was made Professor Emerita of Modern Languages, and Heta T. Curtis, B.S., will receive the title, Professor Emerita of Business Administration. Mrs. Dietel has taught at SMC for 20 years, and Professor Curtis has taught in our denominational schools for sixty-five years.

Plans for beautifying the campus include the minimum staffing of Teacher Hall, an annex residence at the entrance to the school property. This phase of camp improvement will be undertaken as soon as decisions and arrangements are made for the directors of the Southern Missionary College to convene next fall.

Academy Annex Activates Girls for New Semester

By PAULINE JAMES

Here we are again after Christmas vacation and at my 11th grade semester exams. At least I had a good rest during vacation, but we just all got our supplies again last week studying for those "brain-washing" exams. All in all, I think everyone is really to settle down to the normal routine and make an attempt to do more daily study and concentrate more instead of leaving it to do at the last minute.

About a week ago (during exam week) some rather surprising happenings occurred. Everyone was all snuggled in her bed (except for a couple of girls who stayed up late that night to study). Suddenly I found Glenn Ann Cross awakened and one two of our girls sitting on the floor in front of her, having a good laugh. When she sat up and saw them, the strangers left, but Glenn Ann went into the room who came up with something startling. Each girl got the next morning still had some something sticking in her bed the night before and never had fountain pen markings on their arms, where they came

Community Clippings

Christmas vacation meant Florida to many community students and others at Miami home and work. This meant making the staggered sum of $200, to another it meant a surprise trip home to one's dear and dearest friends. Many meant getting back from Florida to be "pleasently surprised" by a visit.

Perhaps the highlight of vacation, other than Christmas, was a New Year's party given by Johnny Goodwin at his home, between 8:30 and 9:00, Ruth Ann Thomas, Frances McKee, Carolyn Ruffford, Tonia Chaney, Carl Ann Meyer, John Anderson, Kenney Walters, Paul and Dave Gebert, and Glen Fuller gathered at the Goodwin's on Saturday, TV, later on to record, and then played a game of "Going" after that. Mrs. Goodwin filled all with some delicious cookies and soft drinks. Then Lawrence the Second descended upon the piano boys with full force. There was only one thing wrong, Kenney, the musician, has a phobia for doors—especially green ones! He had the doors closed, so they watched a few of our number get "Shushed."

Monday night the clock had reached almost 12:00, so out on the porch, we gathered, counting off the stars in the sky. This, too, seems that several other parties in the neighborhood were also welcoming the new year. Some afterwards we went home, having had a wonderful time.

January has brought at least two birthdays. Madeline Bennett's and Janice Vee Widson's. The latter is just 16 and quite proud of it. To both of you we wish a happy birthday.

Dunn Presides Over Nurses Club

The Future Nurses' Club of Collegedale Academy was organized on December 26, 1957, under the direction of Miss Marie Herin, Director of the Club of Nursing at OMC.

The club's chosen were: President, Shirley Dunn, Vice-president, Dorothy Pomeroy, Secretary, Rosemary Stinson, Treasurer, Miss Margaret Ann Stonebreaker.

The club is not very large as yet, but will increase in membership as time goes on. The officers have pledged to do their utmost to make this an excellent and prosperous Future Nurses' Club.

Education Officers Visit Academy

On January 9 the Academy was happy to have the visit of L. R. Kinner, Associate Secretary of the Department of Education of the General Conference; Elder H. H. Hunsinger, Secretary of the Southern Union; V. W. Hoffmann, Educational Secretary of the Georgia Conference; and Dr. W. E. McClure, Principal of Forest Lake Academy.

Mr. Kinner gave a very interesting talk in chapel on "Our World Today."

Later in the day, each room was visited by our guests. We enjoyed their visit and will look forward to having them come again.

Dr. Lynn Wood Reviews History

It was a pleasure to have Dr. Lynn Wood on the campus for the evening, as he has had much to say to the student body at the chapel hour on January 12.

Dr. Wood is now the president of the Southern Missionary College, then Southern Junior College, from 1915 to 1919. He had served as the Educational Secretary of the Southern Union.

Opinion Poll

I believe that interested representatives from the State would promote the best of our colleges in increasing the student body presently say so to how they are getting along. It would bring a larger and more intelligent attendance than our government body, which would be advantageous. If, however, the State would give us a visit that increased membership in the sense would hamper its ability to furnish us with what we need. I will be in the first to vote against it.

Whatever we decide, let's let you give more from our student government to get by studying our public mission procedures and principles of organization. That way we will be able to make better members of any organization we belong to.—Orville Swain.

As a faculty member, my opinion is of limited value. But I wonder if the agitation for eight semester-ones is not a signal for the Student Association to appear in a more prominent position. It seems apparent that some fairly intelligent segment of the student body has possibly its structure. It is equally evident that some fifty percent of the student do not know their own school, its history and possibly could not care less. Thus, I think, is unfortunate. Also, I think, this can be remedied. It will take some thought, cooperation, intelligent thinking, blended with a great deal of warmth (not heat) and good will. What representation on the Senate might be a step in the right direction.—G. M. Hyde.

Case Graduates

The proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State has stimulated much conversation. Other than that, I don't think it is of much value. I believe that what is essential to our life is capable and sufficient in number to handle the business of the Student Association.—J. A. Fisher.

On the basis of my experience with student associations in three States, I believe it is my opinion that a Senate of more than fifteen members is unwise if by some of our larger colleges find it to be their desire. I find it a largely needless for the necessity of a difficult member for SMC.—G. E. Doolittle.

Chiapas Mission Receives 2 Houses

The first program of the Chiapas Foreign Legion in September was of such an exciting nature that the teenagers are still being felt. Friday night, September 27, they completed the first of their supporting mission station in Chiapas, Mexico, showed a sound movie depicting the conditions existing there. Also shown was how the mission station is helping help these students by providing them with food, to cultivate the fertile and fertile soil. Also, it has been shown how to use of better sanitation and health care.

The immediate project of this mission is the building of a model village where the natives can live while going to school. When the students go back to their villages they can take with them not only the spiritual training they have received, but also knowledge of better and more healthful living conditions.

After the program a student handed Elder Landquist, college sponsor of the Chiapas Foreign Legion, an envelope containing $30 to be given to the Chiapas Mission project. Feeling that all the students should be given an opportunity to see the film and to contribute if they wished, Elder Landquist arranged for the film to be shown in the college auditorium and chapel with Dr. Underhill who has been to Chiapas telling something of the need. If we could raise $100,000 we could build a new school which would be able to donate a house to this model village, the students were told.

NORMAN WAKEMAN Narrates Movies Taken Himself

"The World Between the Tables" was the name of the film shown Saturday night, January 11, in the school cafeteria. The author, Norman Wakeman, was there in person to narrate the picture. The scenes were taken around the city of San Francisco, Monterey, Portland, Seattle, Vancouver Island, and San Juan Islands. There were many beautiful scenes taken from the various parts of the film.

Visiting the University of California Marine Station the jubilee was enticed as they watched the "dorado" while "labeled" perform. Special interest was given to the act of casting one fishing net to catch salmon. One could never imagine the beauties that can be seen in the depths of the sea. There are a lot of shapes and sizes were seen in striking colors.

ACCENT were added to the Student Union trust fund, which will go toward furnishing the new Student Union room now under construction in connection with the Home Economics building. Each year, unless there is a loss, a certain amount of money is put back into a contingent reserve fund, which the Student Association draws upon in case of a loss.

To all who have contributed to the Ambrose L. Subtle Memorial, which is now exhibited in the A. G. Daniels Memorial Library, please take special notice of this report in regard to the cost involved. Dr. Subtle was the founder of the SMC Student Association in 1946 and served as its coordinator for seven years. The exceeded expenses by income in regard to the Student Association statement is no worse as intended to be a reflection upon our past administration, but during the year additional costs were incurred in certain projects which were not allowed for in the original proposed budget. However, by the consent of the student publication, SOUTHERN ACCENT and Southern Memories, additional money was loaned in reality came out of the bank and not in the red, as might be indicated by only a casual examination of the attached statement.

Richard Toler, an accounting major from Takoma Park, Maryland, was elected to serve as president of the junior class. Dick is actively engaged in extra curricular activities, being vice president of the American Temperance Society and a Student Association member.

While at SMC she served as COC secretary, MV secretary, and spokeswoman for the ACCENT. Cary Maddox, a graduate of Highland Academy, was chosen to serve as class secretary. Cary comes from Louisville, Kentucky, and is majoring in elementary education. She is serving as secretary of the Club Officers Council. This year a business administration major, Billy Jones was elected to continue the finances of the class as treasurer. Excavation Talks Heard by SMC's Dr. Christensen

During December 29-31, Dr. O. Christensen attended a convention of professional scientists held on the campus of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Lenoir, Kentucky.

The scientific meeting at this time was the National Association of Biblical Instructors. American Schools of Biblical Literature and Exegesis, and the National Association of Professors of Hebrew.

Dr. Christensen spent most of his time meeting with the S. B. L. He said that perhaps the most interesting meetings to him were the sessions on the evolution given on Sunday night, and the report on the New Testament.

The meeting on Sunday night was the excavation at Caferio, Sicily, and Shufren, at which time several of the findings was presented. Also of interest was the discussion on Hypothesis D. Document. They discussed in supposed a general which the apostles had as to be used as a high-grade source of their writing.

The Southern Branch is meeting at Atlanta during Spring Vacation, and Dr. Christensen says that he is anxious to attend that future session. He states that he was happy to find that over 100 students are studying Biblical languages at the session. The trip was very interesting and educational.

They hope this year will be a budget social event of the year and a very enjoyable one to their organization.

The seniors of the 1958 graduate class will be presented to the faculty and student body during the chapel hour, Wednesday, February 12.

James A. Baskerville, dean of the Faculty of Tennessee Polytechnic Institute at Cookeville, will deliver the presentation address.

Snapshots Wanted For February 21

The Snapshot campaign for the Southern Student was given a spectacular launching in Chapel Friday, January 27.

Guy Fowler studied a noon stage whistling a merry tune. Toler jumped from his chapel seat yelling, "It's a hind! It's a pine!" No, it's a Snapshot. Just then a baseball, resembling a satellite, came flying toward the stage. Fowler flinched but he got the picture of the mysterious object, as he might enter it on the snapshot campaign. Bruce Neppel came on the stage wearing Bermuda shorts and playing with a yo-yo. He seemed quite disturbed at the appearance of this object.

Laura Phillips, the snapshot editor, was called upon to give the details for the campaign to the audience. He said the pictures must be in black and white and the owner's name and the date must be on the box in the lobby of York Wood Hall on or before Friday, February 21.

Prizes will be as follows: first, $10.00; second, $5.00; and third, $2.50.

Dasowaki Club Invites Men To Reception

On Monday, February 3, the Upsilon Delta Phi received the long-awaited invitation to the reception from their women friends of the Dasowaki Club. The reception is to be held on February 16 about a week from now.

At 6:35 P.M. Herb Dixon returned the male holding a box and yelling at the top of his lungs: "Look what I found outside the door!" Ronald Pickett then opened the box, took out a note, and said: "Never underestimate the power of a woman!" This statement did cause the men very much wonderment before they deciphered the message. It was anticipated that the organization would be braced out in club meeting that very night. They were not unduly so. The invitation, passed out by the organization, stated the thought of men, since they would be the majority to a surprise.

The club meeting was then promptly dissolved with the result that she arrived in the men's lounge in their mail boxes in the lounge, men and properly wearing their hats.

The men of the club are very interested in the reception and are planning to have a very successful one.

Ten Collegians Enroll for Class in Journalism

Miss Frances Anderson, faculty of Journalism, was pleased to find ten incoming students in her class for the second semester.

This class is very important to the administration, for the training received in such a course will enable the participants to serve their communities in various capacities. Miss Anderson stated that she carried the newspapers in an impressive way. She went through with the students the fundamentals of news gathering and writing. Each student is given a chance to write for the publication for the SOUTHERN MISSIONARY.

Little Chorale Sings Here

The wifeholders' concert given by the Little Chorale was given at the Collegedale Community College. The Southern Missionary College, Executive Committee is sponsoring a series of recitals in the Lakeside Auditorium.

This was the last appearance of this vocal ensemble on the Southern Missionary College campus. These talented young New Yorkers, Don Old Smith, Jr. and Howard Aronson, William Jones, Marshall Dreyfus, and George Blythe, Chorale, have staged and directed the Little Chorus since its formation about a year ago.

In the Southern singing circuit this group performed a variety of music, ranging from a cantata by Schubert to modern music by Debussy, Liszt and selections from Fauré's "Requiem." The Little Chorus has been successful on tours throughout the Southern States.

The members of the Little Chorus are: Frances Wilson, Lucille Lewis, June Harold, Paul Brown, Lynn Daviler, Richard Paul, Harold Shaw, and Arthur Stone, with Dobby Jenkins as the pianist.

Hyde Serves on Textbook Group

During the last four days of Christiana's winter a committee to select the new textbook for the Upsilon Delta Phi in the preparation of composing and planning a new Bible Devotional textbook. This task will be completed in a week's convocation at a time heretofore in the latter months.

James E. Hyde of the Committee with Dr. H. H. Harrison, a former associate dean of SMC, who is now the Associate Editor of the Devotional Textbook of the National Association of Professors of the Gospel, conducted the selection process. Hyde is currently serving as secretary of the Theological Society, and the organizers for the annual conference for the SOUTHERN MISSIONARY.

Work is progressing on the new Home Economics Building.

ACCENT ON ... Collegiate Academy

Juniors Reach Milestone...

One class at Collegiate Academy actually looks forward to the semester exams; well, at least they look forward to the first-semester exam period. For it is during this period that a milestone on the path of adolescence as its sixteenth birthday. This week marks the end of his morbid existence as an upper-classman in name only. Exam week is the period chosen by our faculty in which juniors are allowed to grow up and look at life for the first time through the tinted glasses of a special friendship.

All during the first semester, Juniors have been putting themselves on the back and consoling themselves, "We're upper classmen now." Still, it was uncomfortable when a good program was presented and couldn't be shared with that special friend. It was hard to be told that those schoolmates who sat behind the Juniors in chapel were more mature than the Juniors. Juniors knew better; now they can prove it!

Seniors have a special, almost parental, interest in all this social revolution. You see, we were in the same place last year. We know just how much a couple can be together and not be dating. We enjoy watching the Juniors gain this information the hard way and can sympathize with them when the faculty decides some couple went a little too far.

We Seniors have another great interest in this step in the Juniors' growing up; there are some very attractive Junior ladies and gentlemen. Some of us have been waiting for someone to become better acquainted with those schoolmates, then too, some of us haven't waited so long.

This new semester has not brought a great social upheaval at Collegiate. It has brought a new and better spirit to our campus, especially between the upper classmen. Our Seniors are proud of this year's Juniors. They have shown that they know as many of Emily Post's rules as we. They have already proved themselves to be mature students, equal to the trust and privilege entrusted to them. We hope that the Juniors will feel more over, now that they are really upper classmen, the bond of loyalty and friendship which will hold us together long after graduation next spring.

Lamp Post Staff Reports Progress

Work on the academy yearbook

The Lamp Post is rapidly progressing reports editor, Dwight Hildebrand, reports editor, Dwight Hildebrand, Assistant Editor, Tommy Starks, Secretary, Patsy Barnes, Advertising Manager, Dave Gibson, Copy Editor, Ken Walters, Staff Editor, Pauline James, Art Editor, Carol Outagamie, and Photographer and Family Advisor, Mr. Kenneth Dunn.

The job of photographing each individual student and faculty picture is finished. Work is now being done on pictures of groups for extra-curricular activities and members of the industries. Pauline James reports a successful motion picture that is now in motion.

Present work being done includes preparing data and pictures on blank report sheets. Division pages and other art work are being done by the staff. Carol Outagamie.

The entire project is expected to be finished to due time for the annual to be ready for students in plenty of time.

Casa Valle Club Chooses Officers

On Sunday evening, January 26, the Casa Valle Girls' Club elected its second semester officers. One hundred and thirty girls were present. Other officers are as follows: vice president, Barbara Keefe, secretary, Margaret McKee, treasurer, Rosanne Kowarski; pianist, Carol Ann Meyers. Perhaps our most interesting task this semester will be helping the college girls' club with the Women's Reception; however, we are planning other interesting projects for our club alone

College of Medical Education, Raleigh, a process through the Bible Devotion course at SMC, as a member of the committee. Dr. J. H. Johnson has been assigned by the General Conference Educational Department to visit the text staff and to submit a formal recommendation to the preparatory to printing and publication.

Some details have not been finalized, but the committee expects that the book will be designed to give a clearer basic picture of the doctrines of the Seventh-day Adventist Church and to focus attention on providing a lesson through by means of thought questions, problems, and supplementary reading.

The text should be available to college classrooms in manuscript form by the beginning of the '58 fall term. This will be tested and judged in the coming year of classroom operation. It is hoped that the book will then be printed for the text staff to publish the world over by 1959-60.

McKay Addresses Physics Club About Work at Oak Ridge

Dr. M. C. McKay, Professor of Physics at the University of Chattanooga, spoke to the Physics and Engineering Club Wednesday, Jan. 29, about his work at the Oak Ridge Laboratories this past summer.

Dr. McKay has been connected with ORNL for several years and went to Oak Ridge on a program called "Summer Participation." He did some basic research in spectroscopy, studying the effects of magnetic fields on radiating atoms.

Part meetings of the club have dealt with various principles and applications of physics and engineering, and with vocational opportunities in the fields, both to private industry and in government laboratories.

LAMENT

By ANN CUNDIFFER

At the head of the river where the water's ripply clear
N' the little boats goes bobbin' in
You kin stand 'n' look around you
From the wooden flier's dock
N' think of what you want to think
N' before the family break, when it moves 'n' on the waves
The moon's winds goes a wholin' 'n' 'n' out
You kin see 'n' watch the sparkles of the shadows on the wall
N' think of what you want to think about

By the ivy covered walls where the flowers bloom as spring
N' the roses goes a tremblin' 'n' out
There's a fancy little low seat where folks kin see 'n' sit
N' think of what they want to think about

In the little shaggy schoolhouse,
I endure the longest days
To try to keep 'n' thoughts from runnin' in
But I ain't 'n' I'm, I'm thinking
N' think of what I want to think about

SEATS

This Is Sad Plight Of Many SMC-ites

Dear Editor:

Several weeks ago I was looking forward to a Saturday night program—so much so that I got ready and raved to the Tabernacle church that usual.

About a half way up the middle section I spilled a whole row of seats with only one seat occupied. Oh, I thought, I just shot a waste!

On arriving at our row, I made ready to sit on Saturday night. The one occupied seat was empty and I looked forward to singing. Then I saw the sign on the seat—well, this whole row is wasted!

Getting my teeth I moved over to the aisle and I spilled a whole row of seats. I have a great looking gentleman, imagine my altered desires when he begged at me with the intention that "This seat is taken!" "Froggy, me, sit I apologized." It looked perfectly lovely to me.

After wandering unfruitfully about until five minutes past curfew I finally found a seat—behind a post. All of the more interesting points in the program I stood and looked on from the sidelines.

During the evening I noticed that three seats in the whole row reserved were occupied. Furthermore, the gentleman was sitting conspicuously near an empty chair.

Can't we have a little consideration for the folks who sit in the seats that those who make an effort and get there ahead of us lose a seat? I have seen a number of occurrences as those listed are becoming the order of the day on our campus.

Sincerely, W. E. STANLEY

New Blood Lament Used in Chem Lab

By PAUL ALLEN

From all appearances Tuesday, February 4, was just going to be an ordinary day. Little did the diligent students in the biochemistry lab realize that not only will their brains be used on the bench but on the completion of the lab assignment, but also their blood. For the first time in the history of the campus the chemistry department's blood bank is now to draw blood from all members of the student body participating in the course.

The class assigned to their biochemistry lab, Dr. John Christensen, will be the first to perform and observed by the rest of the class to avoid such a blood draw. The students who have not yet been drawn, however, as was evidenced by many groups and teams, are being drawn by the instructor by the thought that these would be many more experiments in which blood (human) will be analyzed.

Barksdale Addresses 43 Seniors; Doctor Underhill Makes Presentation

The senior class of 1958 was presented before the faculty and students during the chapel period Wednesday, February 12.

As Professor J. Mabel Wood at the organ played the prelude, Dr. T. W. Walters and Dr. R. A. Underhill led Dr. J. A. Barksdale and Dr. Rex Hefferton and the seniors down the aisles of Union World Hall Chapel.

The class was presented by Dr. Underhill. The class consists of 43 seniors—30 of them men and 13 women.

A vocal solo, "The Great Awakening," was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Ackerman, with Vernon Booth, all at the piano and Professor Wood at the organ.

Dr. J. A. Barksdale, dean of Southern Polychrome Institute, gave the address. Addressing the seniors, he said these are the three main things that a student should go on from college with: (1) the idea of a student, (2) enough knowledge to contribute to everything, (3) an understanding which will enable him to get along with other people.

We can retain freedom if we live the contrary to work for it. There are three things from which freedom is:

1. To surrender freedom and submit to dictators. 2. Continue to exist as we are for a while, then we want to stand any more. 3. Do everything in our power to help ourselves.

In his conclusion, Dr. Barksdale said that God happens comes when we completely understand that "it is better to give than to receive."

Dr. Hefferton offered the dedicatory prayer. The seniors ministered to the choir to the strains of the recitation played by Professor Wood.

Dasowakita Holds Reception; "Hearts" Theme of Evening

The annual reception was held in the tabernacle and morning Sunday evening, February 16, with the young ladies of the Dasowakita Forum acting as hostesses for the young men of Upland Delta Phi.

Upon arriving at the tabernacle the young ladies and their escorts walked through a large heart and large life size graduation, but many then went to their proper places at the long banquet tables. Old tables and lamps were used on the tables for lighting and the latter pieces were used to rest and for the music.

The dinner was served in courses by Waiters and waitresses dressed in red and white. The menu consisted of baked potatoes, peas, corn, meat with gravy, milk and butter, ice cream and cookies.

Dinner music was furnished by Virginia Cross, pianist, and Marilyn White, vocalist.

Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Josephine Cunningham Edwards, who related a variety of her own experiences, stating that there were some days that, though hating at the time, would always be fun.

Following the dinner a program was presented entitled, "What's the Deal?" This was a play written by the students.

The play was presented in the tabernacle and was a very successful one. The play was written by the students and was a very successful one.

Biologists Earn Credit for Atlantic Coast Summer Field Trip

The first extensive biology field trip ever to be offered by Southern Missionary College will get underway in May.

To be conducted in the coming summer, the activities will take many students from the state of Tennessee valley during July and August.

Making camp along the two thousand mile stretch will be done with two specially constructed trailers. Gifts from the Southern Union, Inc. will be used for food, storage and preparation, and the other as a cache for mounted specimens and collected notes.

There is a large number of camps at college credit will be given in the fields of ornithology, entomology, and botany. Special biologists field work is planned for the summer.

The group of 10-15 members will be directed by Dr. R. A. Underhill with the assistance of Professors E. O. Grand and H. H. Robinson. This year will conduct a special field trip to the southern coast of the United States. The trip will be conducted in the fields of ornithology, entomology, and botany. Collegedale Academy's annual program was presented Saturday evening, February 22, 1938, at the Taborian. This year it was a patriotic program of musical numbers interspersed with recitals from great moments in our history which covered our nation's history from 1789, to 1892, through the War of Independence, the War of 1812, the War Between the States, The Opening of the West, World Wars One and Two, and the way for freedom to the present time.

Six SMC-ites Get Loma Linda Bids

Six seniors from Southern Missionary College have just recently received their acceptances from the College of Medical Evangelists at Loma Linda, California, for medical school, so stated Dean Underhill in a recent press interview.
The Dean further commented that those who were accepted to be congratulated for their diligent devotion to their alma mater. Southern Missionary College had a larger percentage of acceptances for medical school than any of the colleges or universities in the surrounding area. Those that were not accepted were all above average students and will undoubtedly be called here already been accepted at another medical school.

Loma Linda judges the applicants on personality and over all average grades, even though the minimum average grade point is 2.75 (C+). There are very few that get in with lower than 1.75 to 1.85 for good standing.

The following are those that received their acceptance to Loma Linda medical school: Paul Allen, Ronnie Haupt, Carl James, Harold Messinger, Jerry Newberger, and Vernon Sparks.

Elder Banks Holds Week of Prayer

Elder E. C. Banks plans to conduct the Florida Southern Week of Prayer, March 21-25 in Orlando, Florida.
Elder Banks, the head of the Division of Religion here at Southern Missionary College, plans to present a series of sermons, entitled "Acquaint now thyself with God."

During his meetings, Elder Banks purports to look at some of the world pictures in the Bible that God has given of Himself in order that might orientated Him better, love Him more, and trust Him more.

Elder Banks looks forward to work with all spiritual blessings as he meets with our members and friends at the Florida Seminars.

Voice of Youth Continues Effort

Each night, March 2, marked the tenth in the eight-night series of the Voice of Youth effort being held by the students of SMC. The title of the meeting was "The United States in Prophecy." The speakers were given by John Smith, Sandra Wilcox, Beulah Stone, and Dwight Hillerbrand, who are members of the Sparks Band Number 2.

The speakers which formed the first meeting and is being done before each of the other meetings is, according to Don Crane, student co-ordinator, a very vital part of the success of the speakers. He mentioned in particular the Bible study training band which is contacting members and, though not playing at the present time, studies as a group the way by making friends and writing to the homes. As a preparation for all work that had received instruction on how to give "Bible studies."

There is a special speaker band with four to five speakers at each band. Each band consists of students, both men and women, chosen without regard to their college curriculum. There are a few theologians and religious students, but the majority are students of other courses. Some areas represented are: business, nursing, theology, literature, and pre-law.

Elder M. N. Nelson, Southern Union M. V. secretary, not only was an auspicious two weeks' program the meeting, helping make arrangements for them, but comes up with Wednesday evening to assist with the speakers.

The M. V. Voice of Youth Committee expressed their gratitude to the student committee headed by Eugene Banks. According to Crane the students sometimes miss their evening meal in order to set up things before the meeting, and he has to stay late afterwards to take down all the chairs and clean the auditorium. He stated that it is just as important a function as the speaking itself.

There has been a Voice of Youth meeting each Friday and Sunday evening since January 31. The last Biennial Officers' Club banquet was made available and its capacity of around 2000 has been reached each night. Most of these students who have loyally supported the meetings, but there have been around 200 non-Adventist present each week.

Students Here Aid Two Fire Victims

By Vm-2015 BICE
The recent Brotherhood Week afforded an opportunity for the students of the Southern Missionary College faculty to put into practice what the apostle Paul exhorted in 1 Timothy 6:18-19. On February 18, at 12:30 p.m., Lillian McDowell and Jo Ann Miller, students of the Standards Camp Laboratory School, advised an explosion they had had in a shed which was destroyed by fire within a 30-second motion. That evening the plight of these young ladies was presented to these "students" in Amelia Jones Hall, and within a minute a team comprised to the tent in which the disaster occurred, some 230 articles of clothing, besides accessories and articles, had all been brought together. Jo Ann Miller, who was donated, some of which came in the form of fastenings of dresses, the contents of some 500 cash gift bags.

The following Friday, in response to an appeal made by the Brotherhood Association to assist in Chapel, students aided faculty joined together in making more than $500 to the girls presented to the victims of this misfortune.

We are thankful that upon occasion such as this we are willing to participate in such an activity, and we hope and pray that the Lord will keep us faithful that we may cooperate in response to the needs of our fellowmen.

After graduation, Chiff plans to teach science or related subjects in one of our academies.

Back 'N' Forth

Just as in the cruel edict of this paper did not use the name that was given to this—whatever you want to call her—she was built that it would be "Back and Forth."

"Back and Forth." Have you ever gone back and forth? You probably say that you have, but I wonder if you really have. If you did, it is beyond my present comprehension as to how you accomplished the feat. I have given some thought to the matter, and it seems to me that one would have to go forth before he comes back.

By way of informing you of something, I will state that this is a no way, shape, or form intended to be in competition with "Hither and Thither," or whatever you call it.

Here is another thought well worth considering. The state of the world's drought. Many are wondering how it has been the drought. But, have you ever stopped to consider that a drought has two holes, one on each side?

One more little gem of thought. The other day I had occasion to see someone else if someone and someone else were still getting married. How long do these things last, my dear my dear?

On any evening of the work you can step into the Tabernacle and see the students playing basketball, volleyball, and tennis. The lighting for a place on the playing area. In that article I hope to show you some of the recreational facilities that are available at the Tabernacle.

If you desire to witness some of the most exciting (3) basketball games in the nation just drop by the gym between 5:30-6:40 on Sundays. On these evenings you will see one of the greatest SMC student athletes in action. And that you can't definitely determine whether it is basketball or football, or a combination of the two, come on down and have an enjoyable and hilarious time watching the take-some "fakie" bottles that take place. Remember, young ladies, it is mainly for your benefit that the "gymnasium" play.

On Monday and Wednesday evenings 7:30-8:40 you can participate in less demanding recreation. Ping-pong, badminton, gadden tennis, and volleyball are being waiting for the 34 lucky people who arrive first. Participants of a lack of time (4) will be limited to 30 young people will participate in that age-old sport "spectatorism," an imaginary disease resulting from inactivity caused by prolonged sitting down. And last but not least there is skating on Sunday afternoons. That let us see you at the frequent number of stationary objects called "pallies." Don't come into contact with too many of these or you'll get into a ditch.

Some of the needs and possibilities of a homecoming guide plan were brought in light as a direct result of this study. It was found that homecomers are a good potential agency area but a present achievement of their possibilities. Along with many other commendable colleges, homecomers have become a laboratory for demonstrative leadership and follow-through.

Students of Southern Missionary College, we hope you will open your hearts to the visiting seniors and let's show them we are the "College of the Southland." Let us also be known as the "Friendliest College in the World," especially on that week end.

PERSONALITY

Professor Curtis Serves for 65 Years
As Teacher of Math and Librarian

John Truman Curtis was born in 1893 on a farm near Collins, Tennessee. He attended the county school from the first month until when he could be put in the hall of the farm. But he had to get a large part of his elementary and high school work to private study after school hours.

He taught four years in the elementary schools of his native state. Curtis went to Berea College in 1896. He received the degree of B.S. in 1901. He taught one year in the 1925 W. Va. public school system and two years in Oklahoma public schools before going to Keene in Indiana Academy in 1903. After five years there as teacher and business manager he went to Oatman where he was principal and business manager of Lorraine Academy three years.

Watrous Studies
Homeroom Plan

In order for Dr. Watrous to obtain his degree in education from the University of Tennessee, he, like all candidates, carried out a piece of original research. He chose to study the activities and purposes of the homeroom guidance plan in the public high schools of the state of Tennessee. This particular part of the study had never been done in this state, though some work has been done in related fields.

The background research was started in the autumn of 1955 and consumed six months. In order to obtain the necessary data for his study it was necessary for Dr. Watrous to spend six weeks' working in selected public high schools throughout the state. This involved over two thousand miles of travel. It was not until December of 1956 that the research project was completed and Dr. Watrous received his degree.

The information obtained, besides being necessary for a degree, will be necessary to the Guidance and Testing Committee of the Superintendent's Study Council for the State of Tennessee. Because of their interest, the committee endorsed the study which endorsement helped greatly in gathering the data.

SA Sponsors Egg Hunt in Park

The first annual Easter Egg Hunt at SMC was sponsored by the SA on Sunday, April 6.

At 8:30 p. m. with the sun shining brightly, the students met in the chapel and from there proceeded to the Student Park. There were given instructions at the gate and immediately started the search. There were eggs everywhere in the park and many students found more than they could carry.

Prizes of silver dollars were given those who found the gold eggs.

Following the hunt for eggs, a supper of potato salad, hamsters, piglets, with accessories to personal life, punch, and ice cream was served.

The event came to a close with a worship in the park, where all joined in singing choruses.

James Receives U. N. Fellowship

Carl James, a senior pre-med student, has recently been granted a Fellowship at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee, in the field of radiology of physics.

The fellowship was granted by the Atomic Energy Commission through the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies. The fellowship is for nine months of academic work, the study of radiation hazards, maps, and dosimetry at Vanderbilt University beginning this September, and three months field work at Oak Ridge the following summer.

Carl plans to attend medical school and specialize in radiology after he finishes this course.

SMC Students Participate in Chattanooga Art Exhibit

Seventeen SMC art students entered work in this, sixth annual exhibit of the Artists of Chattanooga and vicinity, March 9-30, at the Hunter Gallery of Art in Chattanooga. There were 216 entries representing work in sculpture, watercolor, oil, pen and ink, and ceramics.

Five of the SMC entries were mentioned: "Night on Market Street" by Allen Christensen, "Tropics of Love," Don Davidson, "Wendy's Paradox," Shirley Edwards, "Los Angeles 2 1/2 m.," Bruce Koppelman, "Fort Supremacy, Metz, France," Alex Pieter, Sculpture

Home Ec Supper; Grundset Emcees

The home economics club of Southern Missionary College held a snuggorbang in the college dining hall Sunday evening, March 30. Three courses were served—a salad course, a main course, and a dessert course.

After the meal Mrs. Sue Estes, club president, turned the program over to Professor Edger Grundset, Professor Grundset began the evening's program with the words, "And seeing Tom been tonight reminds me of a story I once heard. There was a bunch of mice and...

Professor Grundset then announced Ann Wilson, who sang "A Cottage Small by A Waterfall," accompanied by a piano. In the piano trio, three Crois played two piano solos, and Marilyn Miller gave a reading.

The climax of the evening came when the tables were pushed back against the wall in preparation for the grand march. Lullans Underhill sat at the piano being played by a quartet of music, and the guests lined up in two columns, joining Professor Grundset, the director. All night "rose-March" commanded. Doctor Grundset, and promptly backed quite unceremoniously into the hallway. Thereupon, half the center in the pool was transferred sprightly to the floor, and the large plant in the center of the pool was made to rotate about its center, about his head. But he is not one to be unduly by such an incident, and he arose, wringing himself out and led the march in its final conclusion!

SA Elects Officers Wilson, Crane, Hall, and Godwin; Short and Luce are Editors

The annual election of the officers for the Student Association and publications editors of SMC was held here Thursday and Friday, April 3 and 4.

To serve as president of the SA for the 1958-59 school year, Donald Wilson was elected. Wilson has a simple background for his new duties, having served on the Senate for the past two years—the last year in the capacity of vice-president. He is the son of missionary parents and has received his education in several different sections of the globe. Presently he claims Covington, Kentucky, as his home. He is a junior theology major.

Don Crane, sophomore theology major, was elected to serve as vice-president. Crane's past experience includes presidency of his senior class at Collegedale Academy, "Secretary" of the Student Association on the Senate that year. He also led out in the Youth Effort which was conducted by the young people of SMC recently. He received the earlier part of his education in a mission school in India, where he privately was missionized.

Don Hall, a resident of the Collegedale community, was elected to the office of SA treasurer. Hall is a business major and is receiving practical experience in his chosen line by working in the accounting office of SMC.

Raymond Godwin, a junior English major from Alabama, will serve as SA secretary for 1958-59. Most Godwin has had a work background of experience along the secretarial line, having worked in the typewriter office during his stay at SMC. When the reporter, Mrs. Elka Gardner, was inspired in an automobile accident last summer, Mrs. Godwin took over her duties and has carried them until recently when Mrs. Gardner was able to resume her activity.

For editor of the Southern Accents, Donald Short was elected. Short is a junior geology major. He was born in Washington, D. C., but spent a number of years in South Africa, where his parents were missionaries. This is his second year at SMC. He is employed at the College Press.

Carolyn Luce was elected to the office of editor of the Southern Monitor, college yearbook. Miss Luce is from Washington, D. C., and is a sophomore pre-med student. She last worked with the editors of both this year's and last year's Monitor, having served this year as assistant editor. She will be remembered by readers of the Accents for her made Jones, Hall, Colston.

Others running for office in this election included: Dak Toler, Ken Lovett, Leonard Voshell, and Cliff Maddox.

Electors of the various committees will take place sometime in the last of April. Organization of the 1958-59 teams will take place shortly after its coming, said Don Wilson.

Sam Campbell Presents Lyceum Here April 26

"Animals of the North Woods," by the principal trees are identified and lectured by naturalist Sam Campbell, will be presented in the Taberna lecture hall at 8:30 P. M., Saturday, April 26.

This lecture presents the fawn, fustula, beauty, and appeal of the great North Woods—the vast area of forests and lakes stretching across northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan. It is rich in animal life, presenting both the friendly wild who live in Sam Campbell's woodland cabin and live appeared on his many books, and the wilder ones that roam the forest. The audience is not introduced to the forest and woodland life, but the geysers that are used and which has resulted in mankind, physically, mentally, and spiritual.

Lab Assistant Says Work is Beneficial

By KENNETH A. WRIGHT

My experience as a lab and classroom assistant in the chemistry department has helped me immeasurably in a chemistry course, in fact, in a few of my courses; it has improved my grade by a letter.

My duties include helping students, answering their questions about chemistry, setting up equipment and reagents not for experiment, making up reagents, and washing test tubes.

Although I could earn more by working elsewhere, I feel that the good working conditions, pleasant atmosphere, and the wide latitude of work and working hours, more than make up for the modest salary of three dollars. This year, I enjoy my own initiation and ideas in my work.

I heartily recommend this type of work to anyone who is interested in chemistry.

Editorial . . .

Welcome to Collegedate

Welcome, academy seniors, to the campus of Southern Missionary College. It is the sincere desire of the Editorial Staff of THE SOUTHERN ACCENT that your stay will be a most enjoyable one.

We would urge you to get acquainted with our campus. Our Student Association has planned for you an all-inclusive program, but it is up to you to avail yourselves of the opportunities which are presented.

Perhaps you won't like some of the things you see; no place suits everybody or to perfect. But remember, that it is cooperative, unified effort that we strive toward perfection. That is one of the reasons why we need you.

However, we hope that the things you don't like will be in the minority. We hope that you will feel the warmth of the friendly atmosphere, and that you will like it well enough to become an integral part of it come September.

It is but a few days until you will graduate from academy. You will have attained a goal, this is admirable. But in this day a high school diploma just is not enough for those who would attend the medicine. A college education is desirable—yes, even necessary.

Southern Missionary College, the "School of Standards," holds for you the key to tomorrow. It waits for you with open doors, bidding you to come and receive a Christian education, doors, bidding you to come and receive a Christian education, doors, bidding you to come and receive a Christian education, doors, bidding you to come and receive a Christian education.

Maybe these buildings with their bells and whistles and the hum of classroom activity seem cold and forbidding to you. Allow us to say, they once seemed so to us, too! And now, as every building on the campus is as familiar as our own homes, and it really wasn't bad, after all! Another thing—please bear in mind that this is a risidor's day—there ordinarily are not half this many people hurrying about.

You will find college a challenge—different and intriguing. So bring your various talents and personalities and come to SMC. This is the place where you may develop and use them to their fullest.

SEE YOU NEXT SEPTEMBER!

Future President's Message

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to welcome you, seniors! We, the students of SMC, have been looking forward to your arrival for many months now. We have opened our mind and our hearts to you, and we hope you will feel completely at home with us.

I know that as you participate in the program we have planned for you the warm spirit of SMC will captivate your hearts and imaginations. It is a wonderful privilege to come to a Christian school such as this for a college education. Here you can associate with young people who hold high ideals and Christian principles.

Your student association officers for next year are already planning for a bumper year. There are many formal and informal socials in the offing when we shall have the opportunity of getting better acquainted with each other. We will be working on projects, such as a Student Center, to make life at SMC more enjoyable for all. It is our desire to serve you in every possible way, so plan now to come back next year and help us!

The Foreign Accent

By STANLEY SHROVATER

Strategically situated south of the Bay of Bengal, west of India, and east of Egypt, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, which has a population of about 10 million, is the world's newest country. It was formed by the merger of the Kingdom of Nejd and the Kingdom of Hijaz. It was formed by the merger of the Kingdom of Nejd and the Kingdom of Hijaz. On the desert on a hunting expedition, Prince Faisal was made aware of the critical condition of the Kingdom. He was made aware of the critical condition of the Kingdom. He was made aware of the critical condition of the Kingdom. He was made aware of the critical condition of the Kingdom.

Things, he estimated his brother had gone far enough. The Kingdom was an economic meek-bled, the people were gambling against the oil-rich family, corruption was at an all-time high. Ehered Saudi situation, or, preferably, give the ordinary powers to his brother, Faisal said the latter, and now is a man of fact that Prince Faisal of the real power in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, not his brother, or the king.

This change of administration on a great deal to the Kingdom, for Prince Faisal is decidedly pro-Western, and is a man of fact that Prince Faisal of the real power in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, not his brother, or the king.

When any administration shows signs of being unworkable, most people appreciate a major change, but not it appears that the Arab world is due for a complete change of the kind of political administration, for the times come, it is doubtful that the West can count on the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, regardless of the fact that Faisal claims he wishes to maintain friendly relations with the United States and will remain neutral in any and all disputes among Arab nations.

If President Nasser of Egypt can somehow manage to contact Faisal that Saudi Arabia should be all yours you the United Arab Emirates, he will certainly have earned far himself the title of a modern-day Saladin.

We would like to wish the Middle East and in particular, the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, for it is inevitable that the sands of time are fast coming out for King Saud and his policy of Pro-Westernism, and we can expect him at any time to be sent into the desert—and anonymity.

As if to add color to the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, now the most popular man in all the Arab world, cut loose with a spiteful barrage of accusations ranging from supposed attempted bribe to King of the Egypt-Syria merger to You'll probably remember your first impression. At first glance you thought the dorm was an utter mess. You were right about September 1st, a great deal of dirt began to show itself.

Higgins Marches

Back in the groove again—it is now 4:00 a.m. But before we get started on any wind-surfing let me extend to all of you graders some of the best wishes of your grad.

We hope that you will make yourselves right at home and have a great time and come back next year!

Who will be your first one to sign, but I hope that if you read it this paper will be sunny. New just because you may read it in a lot in this paper don't get the idea that it rains all the time.

We graduated at least three days per year! The weather here was some kind of something or other to go on in the cafeteria during our regular school year, so at least we picked up some luck to have all the pain of having to miss our time.

A couple of days ago there was a precipitation upon us, both in the general field of Collegedate during which time many folks asking to get dry availed themselves of umbrellas. It so happened that the rain stopped, but the sun continuing to be causing it to be hard and then fall down their umbrellas.

Dick Brunk is one of those people known as a holder, and it is part of his job to check names all night and see that we don't have too many people in the dorm. Well, the other night while I was checking he found Carleton Higgins in bed with his boots on. He was checking by curiosity. Dick asked Carleton why he had his boots on.

Well, that is, most of us did. He said, "I thought Miller was coming back and I wanted to be ready for me."

Just a little bit before four this morning I went wandering into the maintenance area to see if there was any more of the stuff I had run into but I found Ted curled up on three chairs trying to sleep. He said he was trying. I guess it would be try to sleep like that!

ACCENT ON . . . Collegedale Academy

College is a concert of activity in preparation for our Academy Day guests. Mother Nature, concert master, plays her part to perfection as the grass carpet absorbs the warmth of spring where soon students will band and dream of the annual convocation. Wearing long sleeves is considered distasteful, white thought of an umbrella—while once imperative—is treasonous.

School spirit has been unusually high this year. Regular readers will remember junior-senior competition to learn who the rival class officers were, active forum officers, excellent articles by underclassmen, and programs good enough for the college to "crash" on dean's night. Now a senior trip in sharp new jackets and junior plans for a junior-senior picnic have pushed this school loyalty to an all time high.

Visitors to our campus will find students who, because of our proximity to the college, consider it socially acceptable to study. "Squares" are the exception, but "A" students are very much in demand. We have a staff strengthened by its sweet staff in the college and enriched by eager practice teachers, who, like us, still thirst and drink great draughts from the Pizien spring.

Prospective students will discover an environment here where all social affluence and wealth is forgotten in the search for genuine strength of character and leadership. First year dorm students anywhere often find roommate and dean more challenging objectors to noise and immature stunts than Auntie was at home.

We realize that some of these things which make the real character of our school may not be easy to discern. To make our guests' stay more profitable for all of us we have arranged a place in one of our academy dorms for each visitor. You will see our school pride in all we do. Some of us have come across the country to be here. We invite you to join us next year. We depend on you, Academy Day guests, to raise our school to new glory next year.

More About Amic

Hello again! Here, in hoping that you had an enjoyable vacation. As I didn't have a nice time myself, I really had a nice time in the dorm, many weeks ago. It seems to me as if it has been just about everywhere. Even in Collegedale! And I hope you've seen me and mine at the last Thursday morning about arrangements for the food, entertainment, and other phases of the building program were discussed all down at the store and at the dining room. We met in the dining room for the bus they had charted to take them all on their trip. A group of juniors was in hand to see the seniors off and with them a pleasant trip. I hope you had about eleven that night and were pretty well tired.

Next Monday will bring a very important event to the campus. As Academy Day. An interesting program has been planned and we're expecting a large crowd of visitors. The Cast Iron Club has been busy making plans for an outing the first part of May. Several committees have been chosen to make the arrangements for the food, entertainment, and other phases of the building program were discussed all down at the store and at the dining room. We met in the dining room for the bus they had charted to take them all on their trip. A group of juniors was in hand to see the seniors off and with them a pleasant trip. NOTICE HIGHLAND ACADEMY ALUMNI

SMC is my school, or so it seems, since I have lived in the community while attending Collegedale Academy during my junior and senior years and have spent four of my five years of college life here.

As a place to get an all-around education, SMC rises top in my mind and here is why. There are numerous spiritual activities in which one may participate, the schedule standards are high, there is adequate opportunity for social life, and work opportunities are excellent.

Now that my school like a good political announcement, but since I like SMC well enough to recommend that you choose SMC as your school.

Registrar's Office Proves Worthwhile Experience

By ROMANUS COLEMAN

Sue Johnson and Romana Coleman find work challenging in registrar's office.

One cannot find a busier and more interesting place to work on the campus than the Registrar's Office. Every student enrolled at Southern Methodist College must visit the office at one time or another.

The prospective juniors and seniors for next year have been putting them, for a check-up for next year. This is a very helpful survey which enables the student to know exactly what he has to do and just exactly what he needs to do to complete the requirements for graduation. This is one of the chief jobs of the office, and students appreciate the information they get.

When the grades come out each new week, the Registrar's Office is a busy place to visit. The work is worth the time of the grades ready for distribution.

The girls working in the Registrar's Office are a committee; both between faculty and students. They have to contact both the faculty members and students on some problems that come up. To make a closer relationship between faculty and students is one of the Registrar's Office.

It is not an easy job, for a student to come in and begin work. It takes quite a while to learn the "ins and outs" of what one considers the work in an office of this kind. And work is a gradual process of learning and yet a continuous effort.

Each girl in the office is primarily concerned with helping someone who gets into the office. They try to help but are amazed, however, at some of the questions that are asked. A few check-out cases. Why can't I be married (present on chapel list)? I've got out on the chapel list. How many A's must I make to receive my GPA up to 4.0? Can I get an exempt from chapel because I was top rated last week? Being an acceptor to the hospital to be a baby? What order will the graduation robes for the seniors at Frost Lake Academy last year? These and the names on programs that are constantly being substituted on the wall.

The girls all love to work for Mrs. Gardner. It is not only an education in itself, but also such a work experience and an opportunity that the students get to visit to the work table. The girls have a chance to see how the Registrar's Office works. It is a chance to see how the Registrar's Office works. It is a chance to see how the Registrar's Office works. It is a chance to see how the Registrar's Office works.

College Can Be Fun

By BETTY JEAN MARTIN
FUN. Who are you kidding? No one if you're having fun and enjoy sports, music, and not get too tired and work which I am still doing.

HITLER. Do you ever have a wrong impression of college? You might dream and let me tell you some of the more things you can do on campus and by other means. At SMC you can be a social to enjoy your time. You can have a party, a dance, or a party. You can have fun at a party or you can go to the beach and enjoy a good time.

JOHN. Did it hear someone say something about fun?

JOHN. Yes, you surely did. We have a number of them. You can go to a party to find someone who is willing to play a few sets with you.

HITLER. And if you are a lady, you can go to a party and have a party. You can go to a party and have a party.

JOHN. Above all things don't have out the Saturday night party. You can go to a party and have a party.

Everyone spent a peaceful meal except for Tom Walters, who became ill and had to be taken to hospital. Staffs mending the musical tempo parted with friends at Highland and headed to Little Creek Academy for their next presentation. The afternoon concert

It's Here At Last—and Just As Precious As Former Times

The dawn of the twentieth century of March officially ushered in the season we call spring. A season full of the beauties of new life and happy, merriment days. Several weeks ago residents of Collegeville awakened on the morning of the day to find the world with melted emotions and sacred contentment. For some time most of the students of this day had looked forward to this day with dread and yet at the same time joyful anticipation. Now it had arrived. Panels started over pages after piece of medical examinations to Missy's benevolent cooling, from Marriage and the Family to a beach in sunny Florida and on and on.

The morning's greeting was, dress to a class and with a care the sudden transition to these about "spring" had not as yet made itself manifest in Collegeville. Individual for made plans which were made on for the first day of winter. Snow fluffs were from an unseasonably students packed and set out for the 2 or 3 or 4 hours! (Though there were some delays due to the inclement weather, we are thankful that

Do You Dare?

THOMAS W. WALTERS, President

The future of SMC is assured to the extent that it fulfills its divinely appointed purpose which consisted of being called into existence among the scores of colleges in the Southland that is characterized by diverse objectives to be realized in the lives of the Christian youth who choose to learn more fully the Adventist way of living and serving. It was in fact to do the highest pay of woe under a sun in the world to come is of an ill-luck. The one who was given special instruction regarding the establishment of schools were planned for our schools should be widely different from those of the world in order to get out of this world. And again, the bulk of our schools must bear a different stamp from that borne by one of the most popular schools "F.C.E." p. 216.

In an age of conformity and relative indifference, Southern Missionary College stands its appeal to youth who are to be different, to the extent that they are determined to please God and be most thoroughly prepared, spiritually and academically.

From Greek mythology comes the story of Prometheus, the god who made man by taking mud from an iron and he fitted it in. If they were too short, he had them stretched on the rack. If they were too long, he helped off their extremities; if put the right position wished to "adjust" everyone. No one should be taller or shorter than he.

There is ample evidence to indicate that society today is putting a premium on conformity. The spirit of Prometheus is abroad. Men and women follow blindly the behavior and mores of the world at large primarily because it is the path of least resistance, a whole generation of men who knows nothing different, and there is a marriage on every street which begins to go with its illusions.

SMC calls youth to a life that is different. Do you dare to accept the challenge? In the plan of God each soul is endowed with talents and capabilities which are distinctive. Each is urged to develop himself to the highest plane of excellence. There is to be found no vague promises. Each is called to enjoy a life of satisfaction and success and eventually an eternal reward. Such growth is most completely realized upon the campus of a college planted of God for youth living in this particular age of conformity.

Southern Missionary College needs youth who will help it to most effectively fulfill its appointed purpose. Do you dare to be different and really live?

Recruitment Plan Works in Summer

On the evening of May 11, the Student Senate unanimously passed a plan offered by the public relations committee which would inaugurate an annual but effective plan for promoting Southern Missionary College and increasing the student enrollment each year.

As he leaves the campus for the summer holidays, each student will be a student recruiter, making contacts with each student he encounters in attending SMC. The student recruiter will seek with the prospective new student an application blank with the recruiter's name already signed at the bottom.

If the prospective student is accepted by the Admission Committee, his name, along with that of the student recruiter, will be placed on a special list. At the beginning of the next academic year, this list will be tabulated, and the three student recruiters who were responsible for enrolling the most prospective will receive a cash award of $25 in first prize, $15.00 second prize, and $10.00 third prize.

This recruiter, who shall travel on some students will send them an informal banquet, and these recruit, under their will be presented with a $25 from the Student Association.

This is the first time in the history of the Student Association of Southern Missionary College that such a program has been attempted. The officers of the S.A. are looking forward with great expectation to the results of this student recruiter plan.

Why I Believe in SMC

DR. E. REES, President, Southern University

The future life of every young person—where he will live, how much money he will earn, what kind of people he will have to contend with, what kind of life he will lead—will be determined by the type of education he receives. It is our responsibility as educators to provide the best possible education for our young people, preparing them for the challenges of the future. SMC is a school that provides a high quality education, and I believe in it because of the excellent faculty, the modern buildings, and the excellent facilities. Mrs. de Leon Visits Miss Stoneburner

Miss Ethel de Leon, district instructor in nutrition and diet therapy at the Miami Sutterman and Hospital in the Philippines, visited Miss Edna Stoneburner, dean of women, a graduate nurse at well as dietitian. Mrs. de Leon has been a very valuable member of the Manila Hospital staff through the years. She has served in various capacities except for five years, between 1943 and 1947, when she accepted a call as mission nurse for the Central Luzon Mission.

In September, 1957, Mrs. de Leon left her family in Manila to visit in the Florida State University in Tallahassee, Florida. She hopes that her family will be able to join her here in the States this fall, and she will then, with her husband, continue studies for two more years.

Mrs. de Leon's husband, Elko, is a member of the S.A. in the Florida church in Tallahassee, and they have two children, Edwin, age 9, and Rhonda Beth, age 7, one with her in the States and one with her in the Philippines.

Miss Stoneburner was closely associated with Mrs. de Leon during her term of mission service at the Miami Sutterman and Hospital in the Philippines. On May 9 she introduced her guest to the student body and to the members of the S.A. who had the pleasure of observing Mrs. Stoneburner's visit from the lovely Christian wife and mother of two well-trained laborers in the service of God.

Wilson Accepts Gavel To Begin New Term of SA Officers

In chapel Monday, May 12, the important ceremony of inaugurating the new Student Association officers for the 1958-59 school year took place.

After the devotions by the retiring chaplain, Don Crane, the official gavel was swung and allegiance pledged to the flag.

Mr. Hoagt, in his speech, stated that the Student Association was the backbone of the college. He stated that the primary purpose of the S.A. is to better prepare young people to be world citizens and he asked that this always be kept in view.

Mr. Haugs presented a gift to Elder E. C. Banks, the S.A. co-ordinator for the year. He expressed his gratitude for the privilege of having been able to work with Elder Banks.

Miss Helen Cate, S.A. secretary, was chosen by the Senate as Secretary of the year. This is an honor which is conferred each year on one of the senators.

Mr. Wilson then accepted the gavel and introduced those who would be working with him in the Senate next year. In his speech, he presented a plan for cooperation between faculty and student and between student and student.

He stated that with the cooperation of the students he wanted to make the S.A. an advisory organization for the good of the college.

Palmer W. W. Christensen, director of the Home Economics Department of Southern Missionary College, addressed last week and visited Southern Missionary College to urge students to participate widely in the Second-Year Adventist church's international mission program. He is to attend the General Conference session, to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, on June 21.

On the platform during the Friday chapel service with him were faculty members who had served in mission fields and the sons and daughters of missionaries who are now attending SMC. It was reported by Elder E. C. Banks, SMC's chairman of the Million Dollar Fund, that the faculty members had served in 111 countries of the world and had had more than 274 years of mission service.

Elder Christensen stated that the world is showing more interest in missionary work than ever before and depends upon the response to this appeal just how much of the world's work can be continued. It has been estimated that $11.37 is needed every second of the 24-hour day to keep the world's mission program in operation. A question asked the world's students were permitted to contribute part of their daily wages to this fund.

According to F. R. B. Fugate, president of the General Conference, the offering of a world-wide mission fund to be used for world evangelism and mission aid. New countries are to be added to the list of countries where the world is actively engaged.

The offering to be taken in these three steps: College, May 9, churches, June 7, General Conference, June 21. The funds will be used to help the world's mission program to be continued on a million dollar to be raised on a single day.

ACCENT ON ... Collegedale Academy

Graduation is Beginning . . .

Thirty students, on May 22, 1958, plan to graduate from Collegedale Academy. We who are to compose this number view May 22 with very mixed emotions. Graduation alone is not a source of worry. There have been times when grades were a problem, when we wondered if we could reach the goal. Now we can almost grasp the goal; and, now that we are about to possess it, it frightens us.

Once graduation appeared as a great golden entrance to life, to freedom, to independence. Now the golden gate is swung open, the gold is out of sight. The future beyond is black. Graduates to no longer an end, but has become the beginning of an unknown.

We have had set up for us a rigid pattern of life against which we have often rebelled. The tests in our life were given by teachers over definite material in books; our rewards were grades. Our job was school, our compensation, graduation. This is over. It is not destroyed, but its completion leaves a void.

We do have some small idea of what must come. We believe that the future holds up to us promise beyond our understanding. We believe that the future will retain all our prizes until we actively seek them.

Within our life span will occur the greatest technological advances ever to be known. In the future, we expect the full outpouring of the latter rain and opportunity for service such as people of the world cannot suspect. We don't have experience. We do not have a map of that hazy future—but we have a sure God.

Our class motto is "Walking With Christ," our aim, "Heaven." We have one hand to reach up for the pulchritud hand of Jesus Christ and a second hand to share with our fellow man. The Lord is our Guide; of whom shall we be afraid?

Adjectives Tell Story for Picnickers

By PATIENCE JAMES

All the joiners and seniors showed at 7 o'clock on May 6, 1958, for their picnic. They were greeted by a very familiar valet [NAME]. The right previous Joyce [NAME], Pauline James, Ruth Thomas, Carol Ann Meyers, and Kimm Wilkins staged up late making the food for the picnic. We all piled into cars and went to Camp Quaker, about 12 miles from Cleveland. The day was filled with lots of games, food, boating, water-skiing, and just plain chatter. In spite of the rain everyone had a good time. To close the evening Professor Grandt called for 40 addresses for a story he had written the night before. After he had read sufficient addresses, he read back his charming composition. Here it is in full form:

It came to pass one day that collegians joined and all caught breath of our own Collegedale Academy decided to hold a big old-fashioned picnic. The topical events came bright and early with a pre-arranged time to the picnic grounds in a modest midwest car. Naturally the young spouses went along to keep the ladies' attention rolling along. The senior officers, who were very helpful that day, included the following: slippery Douglas Hildebrandt, long-legged Tom Hinesperring, calm-going Tommy Adams, long-haired Eddie Carpenter, and big-eyed Tom Eddy Moore. Camp-Out Proves Enjoyable for Academites

How suffering humanity! This time it is the miserable inhabitants of Amici. A place so beautiful with its sweet over our dorm making study periods into Turkish baths, and we feel like walking swimming pools with our sweat. We sit outside world to sympathize with us as we endure this hardship.

Don and Roger have a tin which might well be called Old Stony for it puts out nearly as much noise as a door. Nevertheless, it is helpful in relieving their heat situation.

Chad Hodges is the owner of another well-known clock in Amici. The alarm is nearly powerful enough to wake the whole lot of us, but we wake up just (that's for sure) and we are dressed him before it needs resetting.

When the electricity on much of the campus went off the night of April 14, one word was in our minds—Terrible. This we had heard before. This we had heard outside and those talking in the hall and were persuaded to get up and see what was going on. Our clothes and prepared for expected disaster. The storm was not disappointing in a few moments, some got discouraged (we often get discouraged for things around here) and went back to bed. Others gathered in a room 7 to watch the lightning. Flash over the valley. Several pictures were taken with the aid of the lightning's light. It do not know if or how there has turned out.

It was the responsibility of the City Lions Club to provide the Academy Yesters on April 23. The program went quite well. We had several items of special music. The program was held under the stars. Graduating Class of 1958

Southern Memories Presented To Educator Hira Curtis

Dean Jack Upchurch began the May 7 chapel program with the usual sobering announcement. Several of the students are being sought by state inspectors for the theft of "very valuable school property." His then left hurriedly.

At the appearance of this very unorthodox character, Tom Walters, editor of the 1958 Southern Almanac, and Bruce Koptke, its editor, the startled students realize it was all part of the program. The pair were accompanied by Ann Cunningham, assistant editor of the Southern Almanac, who was appropriately bedecked as a "Doll Face," the gon-moll.

Soon there, a wren, and shouting were heard outside. Into the chapel they were "trunked and piled" instead of pots (war), bull, clubs, knives, an axe, and assorted fish. Finally, as Tom Walters, B. B. Collins and Mr. Upchurch round the "valuable school property" (— the 1958 Southern Almanac).

The yearbook was dedicated to Professor Hira T. Curtis, avocet professor of business. Professor Curtis has his barn at Southern Missionary College for nine years, his taught in Seventh-day Adventist schools for sixty-two years. He is now retiring as Professor Emeritus of Business Administration. The first copy of the yearbook was presented to Professor Curtis.

Faculty Dinner Supp.

Faculty Fetes Seniors of '58

Seniors of the Class of 1958 were entertained in Missie Jones Hall dining room on Sunday evening May 11, at a "Faculty Fete" given by the faculty. Tables were attractively arranged seating groups of eight with a faculty host and hostess serving the seniors at each table. Pastel pink, yellow, and green accents on the tropical color scheme.

Before the division chairman presented the seniors in their respective fields, the faculty made roasts and jokes, too. Singing "Old Miss River" and "By the Bend of the River." The quartet, brought back by popular request, performed during the Faculty Fete Night at the beginning of the school year and was widely applauded. Hence Professor Al A. Woodard, J. H. Hart, Gordon Helms, and J. B. Cooper are encouraged to continue singing together.

The leaders first consisted of Dorothy Alderman, Edwina Jackson, and Marjorie Anderson. Professor Wayne Winkler played "Two Guitars" as a clarinet solo, and Mrs. J. M. Alderman sang "My Mother's Eyes" by Mrs. E. C. Binks and Frances Andrews completed the evening's "folk entertainment."

The keynote speaker was Dr. T. W. Walters, who admonished the seniors that "while students are urged to be diligent, they should through jobs are slightly harder to come by than formerly. He told the graduates that "it could mean a life in demand, therefore, start for the best alternative."

The division chairman presented the seniors under their major fields and told interesting, humorous incidents about them. Finally, coming prepared by the banquet served under their chairman Program, Elder E. C. Binks, Devotions, Dr. E. T. Wainson, Feat. Miss Oon Christensen.

Dr. Bushnell Gets Degree On Alvarez

"It is assumed that the man astute in getting a Ph.D. is per se astute."

Probably tenfold more so, a word which would better describe our Chairman of the Division of Theology and Political Career of Juan Alvarez. He has been asked why this particular subject was chosen. The speaker answered, "because Alvarez was our former general and president of Mexico, his name characterized by an epitaph as an epitaph: 'Alvarez, bold, valiant Indian. In the archives of the University of Texas, however, Dr. Bushnell discovered some personal letters written by Alvarez which gave evidence of some discrepancy in this gross misapprehension."

Why is so little known about Juan Alvarez? One concept is that there are certain religious groups who have been accused to have been from evoking any degree of renown or popularity due to the fact that at Alvarez's death with Bruno Juarez, who successfully

What Course Shall I Take?

G. E. SHANKS, Acting Dean

What course shall I take in college? Fortunately that question is settled by the expiry of freshman before they arrive on the campus.

For those who have not chosen a career, a rather wide assortment of preparatory courses exist. Not only are seventeen minor fields are possible in which to take a Bachelor of Arts or Bachelor of Science degree. Besides the degree fields there are many others of shorter duration as well as all the pre-colonial curricula such as pre-dental and other related medical fields such as optometry, physical therapy, X-ray, pharmacy, etc., as well as other specialized preparatory courses such as engineering and law.

Fortunately in these days schools are set up to give valuable counsel in choosing a life career. Skillfully devised vocational aptitude tests as well as vocational interest tests are available in the student, which are of definite value in determining where his natural abilities lie.

It is estimated that more than fifty per cent of the Alumnus people are following an occupation as which they are not especially interested. This is so well is somewhat of a tragedy. The first job of the college is to assist the student to arrive at an intelligent conclusion on the most important question.

Except for certain pre-colonial courses the freshman year in college is quite similar for all curricula. This is fortunate, for those who might be undecided as to what course to take when they arrive, need a year to crystallize their life plan. After the student has been in college for a year it is much easier to determine the advisable course to follow.

Degrees are offered in the following fields: Home Economics, Education and Nutrition, Industrial Education, Business Administration, Economics, Secondary Science, Medical Secondary Science, Teacher Education, Nursing Education, Education, Music Performance, Modern Languages, English, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, Theology, History, A. B. Degree courses for Bible Institutes are also offered.

This affords a wide scope of interests from which to choose. Under the degree courses there are two year courses leading to a diploma and one-year courses leading to a certificate. Some of these shorter courses are in Printing, Industrial Arts, Home Economics, Clinical Training, Elementary Teacher Certification, etc.

Besides the degree, diploma, and certificate curricula there are a number of fields in which the student may take work not leading to a degree or diploma. Some of these are: Auto Mechanics, Mechanical Drawing, Accounting, Physical Education, Art, Speech, Bookbinding, Musical Science, and Geography.

With this rub list of offerings more any student will find a field which will fit his need. Southern Missionary College endeavors to insure that the greatest possible degree of interest and to meet that need to the greatest possible.

31 Take Part in 42nd Graduation 6 Cum Laude

Friday night, May 23, will find the Southern Missionary College, seniors of 1958 marching to the front of the Tabernacle Auditorium for the commencement exercises. Elder B. B. Rice, president of the Southern Union Conference at Seventh-day Adventists and Chairman of the college board, will be the speaker.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given by Elder Roland E. Hegstad, who is the Book Editor at Southern Publishing Association in Nashville. Elder Hegstad will on the campus March 7 through 15 conducting the M.V. Spring Walk of Prayer.

Speaker for commencement Sunday morning will be Dr. Raymond Moore, Dean of Education at Furman University, Columbia, S. C. He is a new S. D. C. member.

On the class of 31 spring graduates, we are graduating our fourth Professor Hyde. Miss Applegate stated that this is an unusual number considering the size of the class. "Aging our general faculty," he said, "is that a very large proportion of the 1958 class is going into graduate studies."

Observers of the Secret Circle introduced. Preliminary notes that Alvarez was a Mexican patriot in those days.

In his dissertation, Dr. Bushnell attempted to vindicate Alvarez and show that he was, not contrary, a man of unassailable intellect and insight.

Probably the highlight of all his research came when Dr. Bushnell discovered a hitherto unknown letter written to Alvarez by Ignacio Alamanos, who is recognized as the outstanding figure in Mexican literature. This discovery will cause quite a stir in literary circles throughout the Americas.

Juan Alvarez died a normal, peaceful death—a situation rarely noted for a Mexican patriot in those days.

Dr. Carlos Castañeda, head of the Division of Bible and Theology, commented: "As a result of his study, he and Dr. Castañeda have good friends, but unfortunately, they were most prominent historians, dead of a heart attack, on April 10 of this year."

Dr. Bushnell's study was the most extensive ever made on Juan Alvarez, and will be published as soon as it can be translated into English.

Thirty-five Master Guides and Their Leaders

Come -- Because . . .

Southern Missionary College has a rich history—God has directed in its establishment. I like to think that God saw each student who will be enrolled this year and directed the preparation of this school for him. This helps me to realize my responsibility to each student.

Years of struggle and earnest, prayerful study have gone into making Southern Missionary College what it is today. As a student you will be the recipient of all these blessings. As God led in founding Southern Missionary College, so He will lead in all of your student endeavors.

Christian education at Southern Missionary College offers the best in opportunities for development spiritually, scholastically, and physically. "Here the Book of books is recommended as the greatest study for human intelligence, as the education essential for this life and for eternal life."

At the risk of sounding like a "commercial" I would like to give what I consider a few reasons why you should be in attendance at Southern Missionary College when school opens in the fall.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College provides a rapidly growing student body with a religious, cultural, and scientific education at reasonable cost.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College is ideally located in the heart of one of the beauty spots of the South.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College is traditionally a friendly college maintaining the highest ideals in spiritual, scholastic, and social training.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College offers on its beautiful campus modern, substantial buildings, having good facilities and equipment.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College graduates are in increasing demand for positions in all fields of endeavor.

BECAUSE—Southern Missionary College has a faculty of friendly, helpful men and women whose greatest joy is to see students make progress toward worthy goals in life.

BECAUSE—at Southern Missionary College work is a privilege and an honorable opportunity to earn while you learn. Work clothes are no social handicap on this campus.

BECAUSE—at SMC you will make friends whom you will cherish throughout your life.

BECAUSE—a minimum invitation is extended to you to apply at once for admission to Southern Missionary College. "If you fail to prepare, you prepare to fail."

Dr. C. N. REES

A Word From the Dean

As dean of the college I am happy to tell you that everything is shaping up for a fine school year. To date we have over 100 more acceptances than a year ago at this same time. We are well pleased with the new faculty personnel. Other articles in this issue will speak of this in more detail.

If you were to visit the campus these days you would find a new spirit of enthusiasm for the future. The sound of the saw, the hammer, and the power shovel all speak the language of urgency to have things in readiness for September 15.

This is a day of education. There are more taking degrees today than finished high school less than a generation ago. In every sphere of life the demand is more and more for men and women who have had the basic foundation of a college course. We are sure that SMC will prove a wonderful place to be in 1958-59. "Come with us and we will do thee good."

Students Plan Varied Summer

By STEVE WARD

As the ACCENT deadline approaches, Fate finds this reporter frantically searching for answers to the question posed in this survey—What are SMC's diligent scholars going to do to keep busy this summer? Judge Hall seems to be the residence of several industrious collegians, and here are the gleanings from a brief investigation.

Freshman class president, Orville Swanner, will continue to develop his qualities of leadership by serving as a counselor at camp KIA KIAMA, a Boy Scout camp in Arkansas.

Lamar Phillips is going to invade the world of the banks and earn next year's expenses working with his brother in a large commercial book-keeping operation in California's San Jacinto Valley.

Cliff Keller will be assistant art director for the Louisville Amphitheater. Next year he will be teaching math and science at Battle Creek Academy.

Gay Miami will assist Robert Aris making dentures for a large dental laboratory. To get the benefits of the Florida sun, plans, among other things, to wax cars in his spare time. Robert's roommate, Bill Lord, will keep busy at the Hialeah Sun (working, he says).

The Charleston Navy Yards have need of a marine draftsman, and that's where Ed McCombs will spend his working hours.

To relieve the monotony of wending brooms back home in Nashville, Jerry Williams plans to make use of baseball, swimming, and cave exploration.

Skid-dive! Alvin Christensen heads for the Florida keys in July. He has a hunch about some unken treasure, and if that doesn't keep him busy, spear fishing and the activities that go along with beach life will occupy his time.

All local thugs had better take warning that sleuth Gene (Sheek) Stone is staying here to night-watch. Crime does not pay.

Charles Hann will be engaged in the occasionally shocking job of electrician, wiring houses in a new Orlando Housing project.

"Cavassing in Jacksonville, skiing in Orlando — anything but monitoring in a dorm," says L. E. Hamilton. We doubt that he will be bored, no matter what.

In the heart of the southwest oil country, Herman Washington, Jim Turver, Bill Berry, and Bruce Koptzke plan to hit the cavassing trail. We hope they bring back good reports from Okeesa, Texas.

Prospects of a profitable summer's cavassing seem to beckon Wayne Darnell, Sonny Hallis, Gary Pearson, Herschel Suidan, Ronald Shealy, Julius Garner, and Steve Sledge to Cadillac.

Optician in St. Petersburg will be calling on Don Davidson as he works as messenger boy for an optical supply firm.

Victor Wu is going to seek his fortune in New York. He plans to get a waiter in a Chinese restaurant.

But we mustn't forget the enterprising residents of Maude Jones hall. Since this reporter does not reside in that building, the report from that end of the campus will not be complete.

We hope Sandra Collier doesn't

The Good Ol' Summertime in "Ma Jones Hall"

We may be short—we may be tall; But each of us live in Maude Jones Hall. We have some news to share with you And hope you're there when we are, too.

No, we haven't changed the dorm name, but a letter came addressed to "Ma Jones Hall!" The summer months of SMC are rarely dull ones. Those who are taking summer classes practically hibernate, peering out occasionally from behind a book long enough for a watermelon feed or wad.

Second floor parlor has been turned into a "Stuffer" Room. Saloon with such famous personages as Diane Ludlum, Loree Kye, Gloria Dreper, and Joy Willett as patrons.

Life would not be complete without the happy laughter of night parties, watermelon feeds, and excursions to Hialeah Bay. So some people's minds—and mouths—work continuously. ReLuix was overheard yelling strange names about 2 o'clock in the morning. But how strange are they, Ruth?

Friends have come and gone this summer, and each has behind memories. Who could forget Mary Lu Cochran and her "cooey-bid" whistle? Or advice, Cochy, is "don't pass your fate on to your students." Please!

We hear via the grapevine that Betty Murray is seen each morning at the store buying bubblegum. One wonders why a college sophomore who works in the library indulges in such pastimes.

There's a question we'd like to pose to Edma Franco—we, fact, Edma, which room do you live in; and where do you hide when the painters come up on second?

If the kitchenette could talk, it would reveal the nature of strange handlings odors coming from it. A survey of the shelves would also disclose how many bottles of Pepto Bismol have been used.

Roberta Wye, Jo Ann Miller, Jeanette Potts, Alie Philis, Lee Perwin, and Erlene Miller went on the Biology field trip last week. When we get back to the dorm, let's keep the bugs to ourselves. That's all for now. See you when school starts.

Spectrograph

Four-foot photographs of the optical spectrum have been taken with the Physics department spectrograph, as part of the work done by Jan Rusbush in the "Topics in Physics Courses." Jan presented an oral report of his work on Friday, the 23rd of May.

The twenty-one-foot spectrograph was an original John Hopkins diffraction grating which produces a spectrum (rainbow) about four feet in length (it takes an entire roll of twenty exposures, 35 mm film, to photograph the colors from red to violet, and almost an equal amount of film could be used for the invisible colors beyond the red and beyond the violet. These spectra can be used to tell the chemical composition, the density, the temperature, the velocity, and the pressure of any source which is emitting light. Such spectrographs provide almost all of what we know about the universe outside of the earth and about the interior of the atoms of which the universe is made.

Jan summarized some of these aspects of the problem, as well as showing some of the photographs he has taken with a special device which he constructed.

Other areas on their program are Denmark, Sweden, Norway, England, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria. They will spend a few brief days at the World Fair in Brussels and will attend two or three music festivals.

Most important of those to see, however, will be the Mozart Festival at Strasbourg.

Miss Herin will go by car up along the Rhine. She will return on the "Berlin" in New York, where they are scheduled to dock September 15th.

Miss Herin Visits Nurses in Europe

Miss Mazie Herin, Chairman of the Division of Nursing, will be on the steamship "Berlin" at Pier 97, North River, New York on the twenty-seventh of May for a summer-long business pleasure trip to Europe.

Traveling largely under the patronage of the American Nurses' Association and the International Council for Nurses, Miss Herin will visit many places of interest in study in connection with the nursing profession. She plans to visit the nursing system in England while there will visit Finland, Nightingale's famed St. Thomas Hospital in London, and Iceland.

She will be the first of her nursing friends of long standing. Miss Whitfield, Miss Betty (Christie) and Miss Alice Smith, all of the faculty of Union College.

The tourists will also visit Bremerhaven, Germany, the only place to do some sightseeing shopping, then fly back to Bremerhaven where they will pick up Volkswagen which will be the means of transportation on the tour.

Other areas on their program are Denmark, Sweden, Norway, England, Luxembourg, Switzerland, Italy, and Austria. They will spend a few brief days at the World Fair in Brussels and will attend two or three music festivals.

Dr. and Mrs. Walters Move to West Coast

Dr. and Mrs. Walters left Colledge on Wednesday, July 23, for the West Coast marking the termination of three years of a full measure of service. Dr. Walters' term of service was marked by many advance moves on the campus. A beautiful elementary school fills a long felt need. This addition has made possible the transfer of the academy to the former elementary school. The new cafeteria and home economics building now nearing completion is also a part of the plan of an expanded campus envisioned by Dr. Walters.

Mrs. Walters' fine Christian spirit and her activity in the work of the church has been a highly appreciated service too. Dr. and Mrs. Walters have given unstintingly of their energies for the advancement of the college. They have consistently held high Christian standards before students and community. Their contribution will grow in value by the passage of time. Tom, Jr., and Kenny, too, will be missed for their keen interest in everything that advanced the interest of the school.

Our prayers and interest go with this family that has given so generously of their time and effort in behalf of the college. We wish them an even larger measure of success in their future place of service.

E. C. Banks Goes to EMC as Dean of Students

Elder and Mrs. E. C. Banks will be leaving Colledge the first of September for Emmanuel Missionary College where he will be dean of students.

SMC and EMC both claim Elder Banks as an alumnus for he graduated here from the junior college and received his Bachelor of Theology degree at Berean. His Master's and his Bachelor of Divinity degree were earned from the Seminary in Washington, D. C. His most recent degree, he tells us, is SOG—Silly Old Grad—acquired this summer.

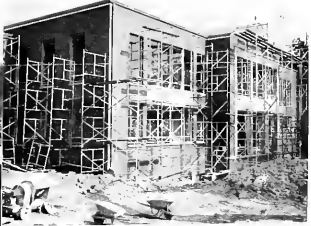

Throughout his twelve years of service at SMC, Elder Banks has endeared himself to students with his care and gone. Ministerial students have caught a greater vision of the task ahead and received very practical instruction as to the "how" of it.

Mrs. Banks has assisted Dr. Anderson as clinic nurse for the past two years.

Patients visiting the clinic will miss the friendliness and interest which were an integral part of her work there.

As they leave we send with them our prayers and best wishes for as fruitful a term of service at EMC as these past 12 years at SMC have proven to be.

Southern Missionary College Continues to Grow

By DON PEREIRA

While looking through the old ACCENTS dating from 1945 to 1948, I noticed a few interesting things, and I hope that they will be of interest to you also. Among these was the picture of the first men's dormitory. It was first printed in the February 1, 1949, issue of South. It is printed here in contrast with the present Talge Hall.

Southern Missionary College continues to grow. In 1945 there were many changes brought about for the betterment of school life. The curriculum was increased, and to this, the faculty staff had to be enlarged by the addition of ten new members.

The women's dormitory, North Hall, was officially dedicated and renamed Maude Jones Hall on September 29 of that year at a special service honoring Miss Maude Jones. Two weeks later the ground breaking ceremonies for the auditorium were held.

The Southern Scroll, the school paper, was renamed SOUTHERN ACCENT in 1945. Miss Frances Andrews, '49, the present editorial advisor, was the first editor for the ACCENT.

During this time many servicemen and ex-G. I.'s began to inquire about entrance into the college. They wanted to resume their studies after a tour of duty with one of the various branches of service. World War II had just ended.

The first four-year class was graduated in 1946. Only six received degrees.

The summer of 1946 brought new developments. Thirty trailers were received from the Atomic plant at Oak Ridge, Tennessee. They were allotted to SMC by the Federal Public Housing Administration to relieve the housing shortage caused by the return of the servicemen. The trailers were placed in the Veterans' Trailer Camp behind Talge Hall.

The fall of 1946 brought more than 80 veterans with their families. They were housed in the trailers and ten tents that were erected for that purpose.

The A. G. Daniels Memorial Library was dedicated May 14, 1947. The late Elder Carlyle B. Haynes gave the dedicatory address.

Elder V. G. Anderson became the chairman of the college board in 1948.

In 1951 the science building was dedicated and named Earl Hall in his honor.

The new Fine Arts building was dedicated and named Harold A. Miller Hall in 1954.

A sad day came in 1956, for the furnace factory burned on July 3, leaving many students without work. Other industries were expanded to meet the demand for work.

This is the final installment of the history of SMC for this year. I hope you have enjoyed the brief trip into the past.

Dr. and Mrs. Holm Say Good-bye

Dear Students and Friends at SMC,
After four very pleasant and happy years we are saying good-bye to our many friends at SMC.

We have come to love the young people of the Southern Union and particularly as you have studied at SMC. Wherever young people subscribe to the principles and ideals of the third angel's message and strive to live by them, their lives will testify of it. We have appreciated the enthusiastic and devoted spirit of the young people at SMC.

The best days for the church are still ahead, and there is nothing more important than for the youth to keep their vision clear of what God expects of them in our time. A Christian education is the best preparator on for these important days.

We shall think of you in our quiet moments and live with you again in many fond memories. . . .

"So walking here in twilight, O my Friends;
I hear your voices softened by the distance,
And pause, and turn to listen, as each sends
His words of friendship, comfort, and assistance.
Thanks for the sympathies that ye have shown;
Thanks for each kindly word, each silent token,
That teaches me when seeming most alone,
Friends are around us, though no word be spoken."

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

May the Lord bless and keep each one of you. We will be at home in La Sierra. Our address is 11227 Pierce Place, Arlington, California. Come and see us, or if that isn't possible, drop us a line. Best wishes for a grand school year.
Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Holm

Library Keeps Pace with Accreditation Standards

The number of books in the A. G. Daniels Memorial Library at Southern Missionary College has more than doubled in the last ten years. During this period more than 15,000 books have been added. The inventory taken last June reveals the official number of books at 20,116, as compared with 12,706, the official figure on June 1, 1948. Currently, the library is receiving about 270 periodicals, nearly two hundred of which are by paid subscription.

The library has frequently been called the heart of a college, doubtless meaning that it should be the center of intellectual vitality. If so, SMC has been provided with a strong heart with the benefitful, spacious building especially for library purposes. An efficient library staff, and a materials gathered together, some will be the needs of the student body.

According to Mr. Statton Brown, the librarian, the book inventory has grown every year, and has been a continuous policy of an accredited college and its books and periodicals of a general and variety appropriate to the time needs of the students.

One of the new methods embracing the use of student study centers, a total of 20,943 withdrawal cards charging due. These statistics not include much use of the library directly from the shelves of one of the magazine critical periodicals. A spot check has recently been made by choosing one book at random from each of the shelves in the stacks and examining the room. Of 178 books that were checked, 150 revealed that they had at one time been borrowed. One centimeter from the library.

The library building, of course, is a Georgian architectural style, designed to study. Conveniently situated on the main campus is the large, air-conditioned reading room, with an excellent collection of reference books. Nearby is the new library room with its comfortable chairs and interesting sculpture on the shelves. The bulk of the book collection is housed on the first stack area. The second floor of book stacks with individual study tables for research activities.

In charge of the library is Mr. J. H. Watson, the assistant librarian, both of whom hold a master's degree in library science and have a long experience in the field. They were two of the first to be employed by the college as librarians and are engaged in continuing education and in promoting the library.

All student staff members in the library work on a regular basis in the college library. The faculty of the library is made up of the following: Mrs. B. Watson, the assistant librarian, who is a graduate of the library school at the University of North Carolina; Mr. J. H. Watson, who is a graduate of the library school at the University of North Carolina; and Mr. J. H. Watson, who is a graduate of the library school at the University of North Carolina.

Student Earns CPA

David B. Hill, Class of 1957, has received recognition from the Tennessee State Board of Accountancy for passing the recent CPA examination and thereby fulfilling all the requirements to receive his license as a Certified Public Accountant.

He is one of the youngest men in this area to receive his CPA certificate and he also passed the examination at his first sitting, an unusual achievement.

He graduated from SMC last year, and he received his bachelor of science degree in business administration from the University of Tennessee. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and was graduated by SMC under a CPA training plan. He is the holder of a diploma for International Accountancy.

While living in College Station, Texas, in 1957, he was employed in the accounting office of the Miller Bros. Co. of New York.
